

GUARDSMEN GETTING TASTE OF CAMP LIFE; ACT LIKE VETERANS

Two Young Mascots Are First in Mess Line, Corporal Reports

BY CORPORAL G. R. MCINTIRE
Camp Williams, Camp Douglas, Wis.
One, two, three, four, one, two, three, four... Her, you up there, pipe down... You're in the army now... When do we eat... What call's that... K. P. duty for you buddy... Come on, we're going to play ball... Come on gang, 'tenshun, here comes the Captain... And Co. D, 127th Infantry starts another annual two week's camp of field instruction.

To the veteran campaigners the two week just started a renewal of old acquaintances and brushing up on knowledge obtained several times in the past. To the rookie, like the writer, it might be compared with a circus—hands, cheering, parades, some things, some of the time. Last night, Sunday, while we sat here going over the intricacies of a camp you roll the impression of a circus or big carnival was most pronounced. Up the grounds there was a band concert, across the drill grounds and down among the trees there was another, while a baseball game was in progress wherever two companies could get together. Incidentally, D company took a neat tramping from a Milwaukee headquarters company.

In the next tent a radio was playing and with no high power lines around the concert was great. Down a couple of company streets some enterprising cornet player was having a terrible time with "Ramona" while the old barber shop quartet was committing murder with another popular song.

The company landed over here in the sand about 3:30 Saturday afternoon after a thoroughly uneventful and after leaving Junction City, a sandy trip. Our train numbered about 14 coaches and baggage cars. It was made up of Co. D, Appleton, Co. I, Neenah, Co. E, Manitowish, headquarters company, Neenah and the Waupaca Howitzer company.

Setting up tents and getting bunks ready for the night occupied the company's attention from the moment they arrived here to about 7:30 and when chow was dished out about 8 o'clock it was a starved gang of soldiers that sat down in the company mess hall.

Sunday morning it was "all out" at 6:15 and the surprising part of it was the gang didn't have to be dumped out of their cots, either. Of course the band comes down the street after the morning gun and when they go back the boys all give them a hand. That's the big mystery of the encampment—it's sure they don't clap because the band wakes them—and as to its ability, maybe Eddie Mumm has enough adjectives in his vocabulary.

Church services followed mess and then came physical inspection. The next order of the morning was that great event in all encampments, sitting for the company picture and was followed by furling of tents. Don't know what the rest of the gang did because orders and reports kept first Sergeant Kessler and myself busy until 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

Monday morning every one piled out at 5:15 and there was one thing noticeable about the entire report of the night's sleep—everyone slept like a log, too tired to even think of waking up during the night. It was quite the contrary to comments the morning before when the boys all heard every train that goes by this place—and there must be a hundred.

Just now (Monday morning) those men who had not been assigned to detail are down on the drill grounds discarding the ways and means of putting up a pup tent and rolling their packs. The rookies of the company are at rookie school. It's a case of all work every day now, from about 7 o'clock to 2:30.

We've got two mascots with us and although its their first year here they act as though they'd attended camp for years. The two youngsters are Art West and Howard Ratzman, the latter a brother of Corporal Gordon Ratzman. Although mascots they're first in the mess line and both manage to get at least one extra helping.

LOANS BIG HELP IN CONTROL OF FINANCE

Austin, Texas (AP)—Building and loan associations of Texas are donating $5,000 a year to a state fund used for checking up on their professional honesty.

The state's appropriation of $5,000 annually was found inadequate to pay for the examination and supervision of the associations, which voluntarily supplied the appropriation with a donation to R. E. Cousins, Jr., chairman of the state insurance commission. Cousins is empowered to administer the fund without "strings" and to use it as if it were a state appropriation.

Texas' 30 percent increase of gross assets in the building and loan business last year was the largest in the nation, according to a report of the National League of Building and Loan Associations. Their assets rose from $1,800,000 in 1916 to more than $22,000,000 in 1928.

The average interest rate paid to shareholders is eight percent, and the range is from seven to ten percent.

LETTER GOLF

A PRIZE PUZZLE
From PRIZE to COINS requires a fair amount of letter golf ability. Far is nine, but perhaps you can cut a stroke from the solution printed on page 3.

THE RULES

1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

3.—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

TEMPORARY PASTOR FOR PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. J. R. Denyes will occupy the pulpit of Memorial Presbyterian church until a new pastor is selected to succeed the Rev. V. E. Scott, it was decided at a meeting of the congregation Monday evening at the church. It was also decided to close the church during August to permit interior repairs. The congregation voted to install a new steam heating plant. New lighting fixtures will be installed and the woodwork is to be decorated. A committee composed of members of the board of trustees, Ladies Aid society and the session was selected to take charge of the repairs and plans for the remainder of the summer.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN TUMBLEDOWN HUT

Chicago Man Hides Aged Cousin to Avoid Burial in Potter Field

Chicago (AP)—August Kessler's humble hut—a home, a church and a mausoleum within four tumble-down walls—may yield other bodies besides that of his aged cousin, Claudia Clara Hein. Police with axes and spades were to learn definitely Tuesday then the place was to be burned.

The body of the 72-year old woman was found in a rough coffin beneath Kessler's bed. She had been dead since April. Kessler said the body had been kept in the hut because she had pleaded against burial in the potter's field, and there were no funds for burial otherwise.

Lieut. Land of the county police said there was much to be explained. "There was a peg-leg man," the lieutenant said, "old, like Kessler, who lived with him and Claudia until a few months ago. The peg-leg man disappeared, vanishing as completely as though he had never existed." Kessler Tuesday lay on a hospital cot, suffering from wounds inflicted when he was beset by two men and a woman Saturday. They had sought to compel him to reveal the hiding place of a board he insisted existed. When he reiterated that he was poor, they attacked him.

Police heard that Kessler was religious advisor to a small group who used his hermitage as a place of worship. They believe that the attempted robbery, was instigated by the woman, possibly one of the worshippers.

A man and woman were under arrest—Michael Ott and Mrs. Ellen Matterville. Police said Mrs. Matterville admitted being implicated in the assault on Kessler. She named James Donovan, who was being sought Tuesday, as the other man.

MORE DIFFICULTIES BOB UP IN PATH OF SUBWAY PROPONENTS

Commission Won't Contribute Toward Work Unless It Approves Contracts

The city of Appleton has been notified by the state highway commission that the commission will not contribute anything toward building the E. Wisconsin-ave subway unless it approves the contracts before they are awarded.

The mayor's veto of the council resolution to award the contracts will be considered at the council meeting Wednesday evening and there is little reason to believe the veto will be defeated inasmuch as the veto for construction was 7 to 5 and eight votes are required to override the veto.

The possibility of arranging an artillery band concert for President Coolidge also will be discussed.

The city plan commission will recommend to the council that it refuse to include the west half of lot 2, block 19, Edward West plat, and lot 1, block 1, Hyland park plat in a business district and that a petition to succeed the Rev. V. E. Scott, it was decided at a meeting of the congregation Monday evening at the church. It was also decided to close the church during August to permit interior repairs. The congregation voted to install a new steam heating plant. New lighting fixtures will be installed and the woodwork is to be decorated. A committee composed of members of the board of trustees, Ladies Aid society and the session was selected to take charge of the repairs and plans for the remainder of the summer.

INVITE COOLIDGE TO MICHIGAN ISLE

Prehistoric Man Explorers Find Isle Royal Good Fishing Ground

Isle Royal, Mich.—(AP)—Impressed with the beauty of Isle Royal Michigan and its ideal trout fishing the Isle Royal archeological expedition of the Milwaukee museum has forwarded an invitation to President Coolidge and his party to visit here. Two yachts, the Narcea, owned by Commander E. F. McDonald of Chicago, who heads the expedition, and the Margo, owned by E. A. Massey of Chicago, will be placed at the president's disposal for the round trip and during his stay here if he accepts.

The invitation included the offer of an eighteen hour cruise from Superior, to Isle Royal where trout fishing is abundant.

A preliminary tour of the island was made by the archeologists and others Monday. The expedition is seeking traces of prehistoric man. Belief that prehistoric man occupied the island is stressed by Dr. Fox and by Dr. West who explains that many boulders found on the land disclose traces of having been used for hammers. The oval shaped stones having a flat wedge do not show any traces of ever having had a handle, or sledge type of hammer, and this discloses a trace of a primitive method which was before the time of the Indian and French miner they assert.

The formations of pits are peculiar to a race not clearly identified the archeologist say, and when excavation work is started on various mounds in the area and within the pits some positive mark of the kind of early inhabitant may be disclosed.

The expedition hopes to uncover some part of prehistoric man, and in the coming week will search for graves which may furnish them with material upon which to base further operations.

Presbyterian Women Of South Report Most Successful Year

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—Represented in the Presbyterian Church in the United States for the first time by a separate committee, the Women's Auxiliary reported to the sixty-eighth annual general assembly here, May 17-24, that in contributions and otherwise it has completed the most successful year in its history.

In making this announcement, church officials point out that under the new plan of organization, women's work of the body is carried on by a sub-committee of the assembly's work committee. The step marks a greater participation by women in the governing affairs of the church.

Mrs. W. C. Winsborough, St. Louis, Mo., is secretary of the sub-committee, with Mrs. R. M. Pegram, Louisville, Ky., Mrs. J. L. Brock, Bryan, Tex., Miss Agnes Davidson, Jacksonville, Fla., Mrs. Herman Harbison, Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. John Bratton as other members.

During the fiscal year ending March 31, the largest gifts to foreign missions in the life of the church have been received—$1,622,483.84—the foreign missions committee will report a decrease of $4,224. The stewardship department, of which Rev. R. C. Long is secretary, will report total receipts for assembly committee and agencies of $2,581,644, an increase of $231,123, in gifts by living donors over the preceding year.

One of the outstanding features of the assembly will be the recommendations of the committee on assembly work, which was established last year for the purpose of bringing into better coordination the executive and promotional agencies of the church. Dr. Ernest Thompson, Charleston, W. Va., is chairman of the committee. Dr. Robert F. Campbell, Asheville, N. C., is moderator of the assembly.

Democratic Nominee Refuses to Allow Politics to Interfere With Golf

Hampton Bays, N. Y.—(AP)—Golf and swimming getting the best of politics, hold the inside of the track with Governor Smith Tuesday as he made the most of the closing hours of a vacation at the shore, perhaps the last he will be able to enjoy before he plunges actively into his campaign for the presidency.

The Democratic nominee will bring his stay here amid familiar surroundings to a close Wednesday, and will return to New York for a three-day visit before returning to Albany.

In New York, he will hold conferences with his chief political lieutenants. When he gets back to the executive mansion in the state capital, he will face the necessity of turning out without much delay the final draft of his acceptance speech, to be delivered in three weeks.

For a moment Monday the nominee let down the bars, in response to appeals of newspaper men to declare emphatically that he was not worried about the situation in the south, but he put them up again, and refused steadfastly to be drawn out on any political subject.

Even word, which reached him through the reporters, that the Patri-

BUSY CAMPAIGN FOR ZIMMERMAN SEEN IN PLANS FOR AUGUST

zens of Speeches and Few Days of Rest Listed on Completed Schedule

Madison—(P)—There are two days between now and Aug. 25 on which Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman has nothing to do but govern. Every other day is taken for from one to four speaking engagements, mostly campaign talks.

The most recent speeches were at Durand, favoring the election of H. L. (Pep) Plummer for lieutenant-governor, and at the Manitowoc Guernsey breeders association picnic, Saturday night and Sunday, respectively.

Monday the governor was billed in Beaver Dam, Columbus and Randolph during the afternoon and evening.

Tuesday he spoke to the Madison master painters and plumbers in the morning, speaks at Baraboo at 1 p. m., Kilbourn at 3:30 o'clock, and Portage at 8 o'clock this evening.

Wednesday is pardon application day in the governor's office, this monthly occurrence being one of the most arduous tasks before the executive. He must sit throughout the day, hearing the arguments of attorneys and prisoners for clemency from the state penal institutions. There are so many applicants that they are generally arranged on a five or ten minute schedule.

After that is over, the governor goes to Waupaca, Wittenberg and Antigo to make campaign speeches Thursday, and on Friday he is to speak from Sparta, Black River Falls, Neillsville platforms.

Saturday, Assemblyman Beggs, Rice Lake, and A. C. Schultz, Bruce, have arranged a meeting for the governor at Rice Lake at 9 o'clock. Governors Day at Camp Douglas will be celebrated Sunday. There the governor will review the national guardsmen and will speak, this address, however, is not expected to take so much of the nature of a campaign speech.

Score: One week, fifteen speaking dates, one full hard day in the office, one tired governor.

Next week the program looks like this, all hours listed being post meridiem: Monday, Aug. 6, Marshfield: 3:30, Stevens Point: 5, Wisconsin Rapids: Tuesday, Aug. 7: 1:30, Wausau: 3:30, Ripon: 5, Fond du Lac: Wednesday, Aug. 8: 1:30, Green Lake: 3:30, Berlin: 5, Oshkosh (Elks Convention): Thursday, Aug. 9: 1:30, Oshkosh: 3:30, Stanley: 5, Chippewa Falls: Friday, Aug. 10: 1:30, Menomonie: 3:30, River Falls: 5, Hudson: Saturday, Aug. 11: 7:30, Mendota: 9:30, Augusta: 8, Whitehall: Sunday, Aug. 12, open.

Score: One week, eighteen speaking dates, one day for rests and meditation if something important doesn't turn up at the office.

The week of Aug. 13, looks about the same, except that the names of the towns are different.

On Monday he speaks at Rhinelander, Tomahawk, Merrill, the hours (still being post meridiem) are 1:30, 3:30 and 5 o'clock.

Tuesday, Aug. 14, will probably find the governor enlightening the electorate in Surgeon Bay at 2 o'clock, Algoma at 4:30, Kewaunee at 5 o'clock.

Wednesday of that week he will speak before the state American Legion convention at Wausau just after the noon meal, then hike to Shawano for a 4 o'clock address and appear in Green Bay in the evening.

Thursday, Aug. 16, brings Two Rivers, Manitowoc, Sheboygan at the usual hours—after luncheon, mid-afternoon and evening.

Plymouth, Kiel and Port Washington are the Aug. 17 stops, under the same schedule and Saturday, Aug. 18, Campbellsport, Kewaskum and West Bend are scheduled address points.

With September's primary drawing closer daily, the drive will go forward at Random Lake, Cedarburg, Menomonie Falls, Monday, Aug. 20, and in Pewaukee, Oconomowoc and Watertown Tuesday, Aug. 21.

The schedule then continues: Wednesday, Aug. 22, 1:30, Jefferson: 3:30, Egerton: 5, Janesville: Thursday, Aug. 23, 1:30, Burlington: 3:30, Lake Gene-

City Civilization Periled By Rural Church Neglect

New York—(P)—The civilization of big cities in America is imperiled by church neglect of the rural population of the United States, declared Rev. H. W. Foreman, director of rural work in the social service department of the Episcopal church.

"Cities," he says, "never reproduce themselves. Formerly immigration was a factor in the constant replenishing of the cities, but restricted immigration has measurably dammed that source and the cities now depend almost wholly upon the small towns and farming sections for the constant stream of fresh blood, the brains and energy to enable them to carry on."

Mr. Foreman's statement is presented in a report which he has prepared for submission to the forty-ninth triennial general convention of the Episcopal church, which will assemble in Washington, October 16. He fortifies his assertions of the religious neglect of the rural districts with corroborating statements from Methodist and Roman Catholic church sources.

"It is in these country districts," he says, "that American ideals of home, life, industry, thrift and essential production were formerly rooted and conserved. Therefore, it is essential if the civilization of the cities which draw their continuing strength from the country districts is not to disintegrate that steps be taken to promote in these outlying districts high standards of Christian life."

Forty-five million persons—nearly half the population of the United States—are included in the so-called rural districts, Mr. Foreman says, of which 23,000,000 actually live in the open country.

Three out of every five of the boys and girls who are growing up in the country districts today, he says, will eventually go to the city, yet only one-fifth of the people in the country districts attend church services, less than ten per cent are church members and one-seventh of all the villages and country communities have any churches whatever.

"When we consider that the Christian churches, and my own particularly," he says, "are doing little to promote religious ideals and concepts of life in these districts where they are needed most, what honest, law-abiding citizens can be expected in the cities whose populations are largely recruited from this religious No Man's Land?"

va: 8, Kenosha: Friday, Aug. 24: 1, Cudahy: 3:30, South Milwaukee: 5, Racine: Saturday, Aug. 25, 1:30, Hortonville: 3:30, Seymour: 5, Kaukauna: 8, Appleton.

Sunday, Aug. 26, the Governor is again due in Camp Douglas and the following day he has engagements at De Pere, Oconomowoc and Marinette. The schedule is drawn up only until Aug. 28, that day, Tuesday, bringing plans for a speech at the Chippewa Falls district fair, Durand in the morning.

YOUNGSTERS TO GET $10,000 IN PRIZES

Management of State Fair Sets Big Fund Aside for Rural Children

Madison—(P)—In keeping with the policy of the state department of agriculture to interest boys and girls in agriculture, $10,000 has been set aside by the department and the management of the state fair for distribution among youngsters who exhibit prize-winning farm crops and livestock at this year's exhibition, Aug. 27 to Sept. 1, near Milwaukee.

Hundreds of 4-H club members are expected on the fair grounds, exposition week, representing practically every county in the state.

"It is our ambition to make the farm club exhibit program unexcelled anywhere in the country," declared W. A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture. Enrollment of these clubs has been progressing rapidly in the Badger state and those who visit our fair are certain to be well repaid from the standpoint of quality in exhibits, as well as the personnel of the juvenile exhibitors. Indications point to a great enrollment this year, which means more and better competition. The many contests will be a real stimulus to the boys and girls of Wisconsin farms."

One of the principal features of the juvenile division on the opening day, will be call club exhibits. Several hundred entries will parade their favorite Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and other breeds of cattle before judges in the livestock pavilion in quest of a share of the $1,200 that will be divided among the winners.

An additional $1,000 appropriation was made by the state, largely to help defray the expenses of transporting the animals to the fair.

Sheep, pigs and poultry will be among the exhibits. A home craft contest and style show will be conducted to furnish an added interest for the 4-H girls club. Garden crops also will be on display.

The fair management with the support of the legislature, plan to have permanent farm buildings erected on the fair grounds. This will do away with the tents used in former expositions. A $40,000 appropriation by the last legislature was made for a girls' dormitory which will be completed for the 1929 fair. This building will accommodate approximately one hundred and fifty girls.

T. L. Revick, Madison, is again in charge of the boys and girls' department, assisted by a corps of experts. Other co-operating agencies include the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, United States Department of Agriculture, and the state department of Vocational Education.

Mr. Stone was sent to the school by the Knights of Columbus. Eighteen scout leaders from California, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana and Illinois attended the sessions, Mr. Stone said.

The first two days at the school were devoted to a thorough study of boys under the direction of Professor Pierce, who spent eight years with boys at Culver Military Academy. Six class periods in nature study and

PRICE OF COFFEE TO RAISE, DEALERS SAY

Blame Efforts of Brazilians to Keep Market Under Control

Coffee consumers should not be surprised if the retail price advances within the next week or two, according to local tea and coffee dealers. There has been little change in the retail price of coffee for several months, although the market has gradually been advancing until it cost the wholesale dealer about seven cents more a pound.

Dealers were expecting a decrease in the market price this year because of the large crop of coffee harvested last season. The crop last year is considered one of the largest ever grown, but Brazil coffee growers no longer ship their coffee to the market as soon as it is ready. Brazilians have begun to control prices and have built large warehouses in which to store the surplus stock. Brazil furnishes about 70 per cent of the world's coffee crop, according to dealers.

Brazilian coffee harvesters are paid a certain percentage when they deliver their goods and receive the balance when it is sold. The average consumption of each country buying Brazil coffee has been estimated and a definite amount is shipped each week, not to exceed the consumption, according to dealers. In this way, the government of that country is safeguarding any accumulation of coffee in the warehouses of other countries.

The expense involved in keeping a surplus stock in the warehouse is defrayed by the increased price of the coffee as it ages. The older the coffee gets, the more it increases in cup value, according to dealers.

A Shanghai paper mill is utilizing the reeds which grow in profusion along the river banks as a raw material. Its capacity is about 15,000 tons a year.

Menasha Fire Department Boasts Of A Flying Chief

Menasha — The traditional fireman is a man who lives by extremes—one time fighting the licking flames; another time sitting in the yard behind the fireman and pitching horseshoes or spearing flies. But the traditional fireman, like the hand painted kerosene lamp, seems to have passed out of the picture. At least one Menasha fireman—and he's the chief at that—has found a new way of employing his leisure time.

Paul Theimer, when the rip roaring fire trucks stand quietly in the barn, prepares himself for another kind of exciting ride by working on the engine of his Cuckoo airplane in which he takes frequent flights over Neenah, Menasha and Appleton.

The fire chief has only been flying since last spring but already feels nearly as much at home in an airplane as on top of a fire ladder.

Besides airplane, and a habit at right beneath the justice court, the Menasha fireman have another good means of enjoying themselves when business is dull. Appleton firemen have cards. But the firemen of Menasha have a clear and lively radio to entertain their quiet hours.

FIND NEW SOURCES IN OREGON SLAYING

he killed Oregon with. Trejo also gave Toral eighteen cartridges and taught Toral how to use the pistol. "Toral practiced with this pistol in a canyon behind the church of Guadalupe (the shrine of Mexico's patron saint, near Mexico City)." The statement next recited how Toral, posing as a photographer when Oregon made his triumphal entry into Mexico City on Sunday, July 15, was at the railroad station with his pistol ready.

From Sunday until the following Tuesday, when he assassinated Oregon, Toral hung around the Oregon headquarters, his victim's home and other places where he hoped to find the president-elect.

The police statement asserted that during this time Toral used the residence of a Catholic woman as a rendezvous.

"I have no defense and will make no defense in my trial," the assassin said to newspapermen Monday.

"The killing of Oregon was a good deed. I expect to go to heaven. I think Oregon will be saved too. He was fundamentally a good man."

"I expect to die for killing Oregon. I give my life for his."

"The religious question, the religious question only, absolutely nothing else caused me to kill Oregon because I consider him intellectually responsible for the Mexican government's religious policy and everything else in Mexico."

"When I confessed before the killing to a Catholic priest, I did not tell the priest, I intended killing Oregon. You only confess sins, also you only confess what you've done not intentions."

"The killing of Oregon was a good deed and not a sin and did not have to be confessed. My soul is absolutely tranquil. As my intention has been good I expect to be saved and go to heaven, but if I have committed a great crime God will forgive me because my intentions were good."

HUNGARY JAZZ MAKES GYPSY BAND JOBLESS

Budapest — Gypsy musicians in Hungary are faced with a serious crisis. Their grievance is that the foreign invader has taken the bread out of their mouths.

The reality is that the jazz craze has captured the new generation of Hungarians. Interest in Gypsy Music is waning, and apart from the villages, where it is still in vogue, there is little of it in the cities.

Every first class hotel and restaurant in Hungary has its jazz band. The saxophone has displaced the violin, and thrown hundreds of musicians out of work," said Stephanie Geza, Gypsy prince of Hungary, who conducts concerts in the famous cafe "New York."

"The government does not want to interfere in the conflict between sentimental music and the discordant cacophonous jazz. It is a real pity that our unhappy artists cannot find protection when their interests are threatened. There are in all 120 Gypsy bands in the capital, of which two-thirds are out of work. Gypsy musicians working in cafes and restaurants draw starvation wages. They depend chiefly on tips for their livelihood. Ludicrous as it may appear, a Gypsy musician's salary is $2 a month."

Many of the inhabitants of the Irish counties of Down and Antrim speak a form of old Scots, with little sign of the Irish tongue.

CUBA MAY PROHIBIT U. S. SLOT MACHINES

Havana — (AP) — The Cuban government controls a huge lottery, views with complacency, roulette, baccarat and horse racing, but is preparing to strike a death blow at the advance guard of American slot machines invading the island.

The "nickle twisters" just made their debut into Cuba within the last year under a concession granted an American company. After a few, brief months of spasmodic running they face the gloomy future of being deported.

A law has been proposed prohibiting slot machines in Cuba and will be considered by the house of representatives. In the preamble to the bill it is pointed out that the machines were ostensibly installed for the automatic sale of peppermints and confections, but that the business had degenerated into a mere gambling game.

The peppermints and confections, even though claimed by the winner, are of such inferior quality that they are not edible. The preamble further charges that the machines are 90 to one against the player.

Several cases are cited where minors have lost. One case stressed is that of a 9-year-old boy who was sent by his father to pay a bill amounting to six dollars. The youth squandered the money in the machine and later ran away from home.

Incidentally, the Cuban press has taken decisive stands against the machine, their doom is virtually sealed, it being understood that the proposed law will pass without opposition.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS GO YEAR WITHOUT HEAD

Chicago — (AP) — One of the world's largest school systems, that of Chicago, has completed a year's operation without the services of a superintendent. The cause is traced back to the 1927 municipal election, at which William Hale Thompson was chosen mayor.

Thompson promised if elected he would remove William McAndrew, superintendent of schools, because the mayor asserted, he was pro-British. McAndrew was suspended shortly after Thompson was installed, and after a trial lasting half the school year, the school board voted that he be dismissed.

During the school year the work of the superintendent has been in the hands of an assistant, but at no time has there been an acting superintendent so titled. McAndrew, whose contract expired in January this year, refused to accept salary during the period of his suspension, so that the city was saved this expense. Suits have been filed by the former superintendent, however, seeking, in one instance, to collect $250,000 from the mayor for alleged libel.

The superintendent-less year was marked by the largest attendance in the history of Chicago schools and by the largest number of graduates from high schools.

CHINA STUDENTS BARRED FROM PLAYING POLITICS

Shanghai — Chinese students in Szechuan can best help their country and the Nationalist government by staying in school and studying hard instead of quitting their studies to engage in anti-Japanese propaganda and anti-Japanese boycott agitation, says General Chang Tsiang-fen, mayor of the Chinese city of Shanghai.

The mayor's admonition to the youthful Chinese patriots came as a result of the latter's enthusiasm for engaging in anti-Japanese movements following the recent Nationalist-Japanese clashes in Shanghai.

After the initial clashes at Tientsin, the capital of the province, the Chinese students' unions here immediately began to picket Japanese consulates and to engage in anti-Japanese boycott.

THE SUBWAY VETO

Mayor Rule, we believe, was justified in his veto of the common council's resolution to award contracts for construction of the subway at the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks at East Wisconsin avenue. While his estimates of the cost of the subway perhaps were a trifle high we agree with him that the city's finances at this time do not permit of expenditures for projects not absolutely required.

The veto message, we think, did not state the city's position with relation to its finances and large construction projects of immediate concern as forcefully as it might if the mayor had desired to go into it more deeply. If this year's finances only were to be considered and there were no other large projects requiring immediate attention it might be well enough to proceed with the construction and get out of financial dilemma as best we can next year.

But the program that is ahead of the city is not only of this year or of next year, but is so large that it will require a number of years and millions of dollars to carry out. It is no secret around the city hall that the day is not far off when Appleton will be required to cease dumping sewage into the river and contaminating the water supply of this city and all other communities below Appleton depending upon the Fox river. It has been estimated that the cost of building a garbage disposal plant and intercepting sewers along the Fox river to carry this sewage to the disposal plant and to separate storm and sanitary sewers in all parts of the city will be well over a million dollars. Every day brings nearer the time when this big project must be started but unless the city prepares now for that eventual day how will it finance so tremendous an undertaking?

The board of education has indicated very clearly that in a few years it will be necessary to erect a new senior high school because the increase in enrollment soon will crowd the present building beyond capacity. A bond issue large enough to purchase a site and erect the kind of a school required here is almost out of the question unless there is an unforeseen increase in the assessed valuation of Appleton. We believe that the council, with its knowledge of impending expenditures, should make provision for meeting them by setting aside sums of money every year so when the time comes to build the matter of finances will not be so grievous a problem. But if sums like $60,000 are poured out for projects which we can get along well without there won't be any money left for "nest eggs."

It is not denied that a subway on East Wisconsin avenue is desirable, but it is a long way from being necessary. As has been said before the only way to reach the west entrance of the subway from any part of downtown Appleton is to cross the Northwestern tracks at grade at some other street. If our motorists and our people are willing to cross the tracks downtown we can see no pressing reason why they should not cross them at grade on East Wisconsin avenue. We believe that the sewer separation system and the new high school are much more pressing than the subway, and we commend Mayor Rule on his veto.

We commend Mayor Rule on his veto and believe the council should sustain it, and then begin immediate consideration of means to induce the railroad commission to rescind its order to construct the subway.

Perhaps if the common council could come to a unanimous agreement that the subway isn't necessary and will swallow its pride the railroad commission might be induced to grant another hearing on this matter and rescind its order. The commission is made up of high type men who have no desire to penalize the city and we believe that if the matter of the subway was presented to them in its true light, and with the unanimous backing of our city government and our citizens it would take a reasonable view and recall its order. Another effort toward that end should be made.

A WARNING TO DEMAGOGUES

President Coolidge in dedicating at Cannon Falls, Minn., a memorial to Col. William Colville, Union hero of the battle of Gettysburg, made the theme of his address a reunited nation, in the course of which he said:

One result of the war (Civil) which retarded our national progress for many years was the bitterness, hatred and sectional animosities that it left in its wake. For many years, both for the North and for the South, these were unwholesome and stimulating and kept alive for the political advantage that the sponsors of such action hoped to secure. The time has long since passed when to hold or express such hostile sentiments should ever be permitted to work to the advantage of any one.

Those who resort to them should find that their standing in the public confidence is thereby seriously impaired. While isolated outbreaks may continue to occur in irresponsible quarters, I am firmly convinced that the responsible elements both in the North and the South each look with pride and satisfaction upon the brilliant contribution which the other is making to the national welfare and are just as eager to help the other as they are to help themselves.

If the president had been dedicating a memorial to John Mitchell or to Andrew Carnegie he could have employed the identical language with reference to strife between labor and capital in the United States. To use his words, bitterness, hatred and misunderstanding have been "stimulated and kept alive for the political advantage that the sponsors of such action hoped to secure." It is an evident fact that the politicians have done more to retard and defeat friendly understanding and cooperation between employers and employees than any other factor. Some of them have lived off of it and kept themselves in office by this fanning of distrust and prejudice between elements that ought to work together and that would if left to themselves and their own sense of right and justice.

Politicians continue to thrive on this policy. We have them in Wisconsin. If a manufacturer takes an interest in civic affairs or consents to use his executive ability for the benefit of the people in public office, he is immediately denounced as a tax-dodger and an industrial villain. If he ventures an opinion on legislation or policies of government, no matter how sound and pertinent the criticism may be, he is excoriated as an exploiter and enemy of labor. It does not matter where he lives or what his record or character may be as an upright citizen. Every employer of labor is put in the same class, vilified and ridiculed. So is every responsible business institution. They are profiteers and crooks. The motives of the man who achieves wealth or success, is public-spirited and gives of his time and money to worthy institutions, are immediately challenged, especially if he is or has been an employer of labor. He has an "ulterior purpose" in mind, no matter how honorable or straightforward his life has been. No one is safe from attack or abuse by these politicians, who seek to keep alive hostility between capital and labor, just as the politicians in the reconstruction days fanned the flames of hatred and sectional feeling between the North and the South. There is not a particle of difference between the two.

In the further language of the president, "those who resort to them (these methods) should find that their standing in the public confidence is thereby seriously impaired." They should and will in time forfeit the respect of even those who now listen to their class appeals. The whole tendency of employers and employees is to get together where they have a chance and are left to themselves. Public officials and legislative bodies which recognize this fact and endeavor to promote cooperation, fairness and understanding are real helpers toward industrial peace and the true servants of the labor cause.

Human nature is the same the world over. It responds to solvents and it rebels against irritants. The greatest irritants we have are not the leaders of labor or capital, or the exponents of this group or that cause. They are our politicians and demagogues who have no regard for truth and facts or for the normal instincts and inherent virtues of their fellowmen.

A ship in danger of destruction by mountainous waves was saved by the captain pouring a 700-gallon cargo of molasses overboard. The molasses, the uncrystallized syrup drained from raw sugar, had the same effect as pumping oil overboard, and stilled the water around the ship.

One short blast from a liner's whistle, when she meets another liner, means that she is taking the starboard course; two blasts that she is taking her course to port; three that she is going full speed astern.

There is an extraordinary echo in the Cathedral at Pisa. If you sing two notes there is no reverberation, but if you sing three they are taken up, swelled, and prolonged into a beautiful harmony.

HABITS, HOBBIES AND HEALTH

No. 2.—Eating and Bedtime
Anyone who does honest work or plays actively should eat heartily and to the satisfaction of his appetite and as soon thereafter as he feels inclined he may go to bed and sleep in assurance that he is doing the natural healthful thing. People who live by their wits or upon a marriage, people who are overnourished, must avoid hearty meals at bedtime, and should avoid them at all times.

Man has no conscious control what ever over any part of his digestive process. But the involuntary "sympathetic" nervous system automatically controls the secretion of digestive fluid and the movements of the stomach and intestine, and emotional impulses independent of the will or consciousness do exert favorable or unfavorable influences upon the digestive functions. Anxiety, worry, fear tends to retard digestion in every stage of the process. You know how your appetite falls when you are anticipating some trying ordeal, and how the old appetite comes back with a whoop after the critical moment is over. Ever one knows that cheerful friends and pleasant surroundings and agreeable thoughts or conversation at mealtime help digestion. These "emotional" factors account for most of the harm popularly ascribed to late suppers or bedtime lunches.

Of course digestion proceeds while one sleeps, normally. The digestive organs perform their work at all times without the individual being conscious of it. So why not enjoy your bedtime lunch and digest it while you sleep?

If you're too stout, no midnight knick knacks for yours. If you can profitably carry more weight, one of the best ways to get it is this: Just before retiring take a glass or a pint of pure fresh certified, raw or unpasteurized milk, preferably, and a slice of bread or a few crackers. Such a lunch at bedtime every night for a year will give 20 pounds of added weight in a year, if you are in a condition free to gain. If you have handicaps of course they must be removed.

One of the secretory processes of digestion is the secretion of insulin by cells of the pancreas. The insulin enters the blood stream, and is essential in the assimilation or metabolism of the blood sugar, which is the form all carbohydrate food takes in the body. A good many people are underweight because they are shy in their insulin secretion. These people gain a good appetite and consume and assimilate quite hearty meals when they are given regular injections of insulin at about the time it is needed in digestion.

Those who should not take the extra nourishment have no fair cause for complaint, for they suffer insomnia, nightmare, or "indigestion" from a late supper. It is nature's way to persuade them to live more temperately.

A good deal of the popular prejudice against eating before sleeping arises from the error of charging to perfectly wholesome food the wakefulness produced by coffee or excitement left by social diversions or the intoxication of alcohol or tobacco.

Many undernourished persons not only sleep better but gain in vigor by the habit of taking a light lunch at bedtime. As a general rule, healthy persons may hit the cornbush as soon as they wish after the heartiest dinner.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Complete Words and Music

I saw an article in your column May 21 about injecting a fluid in the veins for varicose veins. Please send me full details and all necessary information. (Mrs. A. K. E.)

Answer—All the details I can give were included in the article you saw. Any up to date physician can administer the chemical treatment successfully. I am glad to refer any physician to the technical reports on the method, if he so desires.

Tart Fruits Smart Tongue
Why is it that foods such as peaches, pineapple, tomatoes, spinach and egg plant smart my tongue while eating? Does this mean that I have too much acid in my system? Also I have a heavy tartar deposit on my teeth, while my sister, on the same diet, generally has no such troubles. (H. E.)

Answer—Sister probably visits her dentist more regularly to have the teeth scaled or cleaned. The presence of the tartar deposits may keep your tongue irritated and the foods naturally smart the raw spots. Anyway, it is no indication of acid in your system, and if you had acidosis or too much acid in your system, these foods you mention would all be especially good to oppose it.

Fat Girl
I am a fat girl, in high school. The girls seem to like me, but you know fat girls are not overhyped with "dates." Is marmalade harmful to one's health? Are there any reducing compounds safe to take? (H. G. W.)

Answer—Do not indulge in any reducing remedies without medical supervision. If you were older I might be able to instruct you how to go about reducing safely. But for a girl of school age the personal supervision of a physician is absolutely essential in any attempt at reduction. At last analysis I have, marmalade contained "thyroid extract," and this is a dangerous drug for any layman to trifling with.

GETTING OUT THE VOTE

Washington, D. C. — Men are inclined to smile a superior smile when mention is made of the wonders were going to accomplish when they won the vote. Now that suffrage indifference is a national scandal which strangely enough has not brought a senate investigation, a slight raising of feminine eyebrows is in order.

However, one prophecy of the women has materialized. That is that they would do housecleaning. Literally they have, in many instances cleaned up the polls. Voting booths are located in an environment quite unlike that of the old days when they were to be found in pool-rooms, filthy abandoned buildings, or even as many will remember, in saloons. Obviously, they could no longer be in saloons, but it is generally conceded that to women goes the credit of placing the voting machinery in surroundings conducive to good citizenship. Schools, community centers, especially constructed booths, and vacant buildings properly reconditioned are the locales where voting Americans now exercise the privilege or fulfill the duty of suffrage.

Recognizing the danger of suffrage indifference, women are doing something about that. Barrels of ink, which if all placed in one vat would amount to some remarkable figure, and reams of paper, which if placed in a pile would make a mammoth mountain, have been dedicated to the cause of getting out the vote. Lamentations have been wailed, exhortations have been howled, vituperations have been voiced, and entreaties have been invoked, all have been called down on the head of what has been described in turn as the ungrateful, undutiful, careless, thoughtless, or indifferent potential voter.

Women having been civic housekeepers have become civic teachers. An educational campaign has been launched by the National League of Women Voters aimed to arouse the spirit of '76 and recall the cry "Taxation without representation is tyranny," with the warning that there is no tyranny like the tyranny that a people indifferent to government brings upon itself.

For years this organization with its state and local leagues has undertaken to inform voters on the necessity, privilege and technique of marking ballots. As non-partisan group it has urged, "Vote as you please, but vote."

SALES METHODS USED
The bigger-and-better-business methods used in the presidential election of 1928 are a commentary on the place of suffrage in American life today. It is significant that it is necessary to work on people to exercise their privilege of self-government, equally meaningful that it is being done.

The same kinds of publicity and sales methods are being used to attract voters to the polls as are employed to part them from their hard-earned cash. Just as cleverly worded ads make the readers think they must buy something never longed for before, so flers like the following snappily snare the votes of the indifferent. "It's true. The best candidate needs the most votes. Your Government — somebody's business — whose? You can't escape the ballot box. It follows you home. Votes decide public health, taxes, schools, libraries, roads, etc."

A "Handy Digest of Election Laws" has been prepared which will show to the native, resident or non-resident, of any State his rights and the requirements for voting.

Enterprising firms desiring to open stores in new territory employ checkers to count the number of persons passing certain sites in a given period. This is one way of estimating potential business.

Enterprising leagues have patiently canvassed blocks, from house to house, to ascertain the number of potential voters. In States where registration is required it is possible to compare the actual and potential registration lists, and send reminders to the delinquents. Before election day the registered voters will be reminded of the opportunity to have their say-so in government affairs.

Such a system as that might be graded primary, being content with getting out any kind of a vote. In the secondary and higher graded systems are the voters' schools, the purpose of which is stirring up an intelligent vote. In a one day term of two sessions, a varied curriculum is introduced which includes theory, practice, and principles.

Leaders discuss the responsibilities of democratic government, what it is, and those essentials of good government — fit personnel, efficient machinery, and cooperation of citizens. How the ballots are made up, necessarily involving the nominating system, and how the ballots are marked are courses in these helpful schools of government, thousands of incorrectly mailed ballots thrown out at every election are the reason that voting technique is considered so important that it is given outside of the school, too.

The issues, local, state, or national, are discussed without bias, and everyone is encouraged to ask questions.

ALL MAY ATTEND SCHOOL
Although the schools are primarily planned for women, this educational campaign is for the benefit of everyone. The voting infants of twenty-one, the youngsters who have had their thrill of casting a vote in a rational election and who have become absorbed in young family or young business, and the oldsters who lament, "What's the use?" are the pupils.

Young voters will be reached by means of college organizations and birthday parties. The former will select eligible students vote and they are urged to see that the faculty does also. The latter are primarily social affairs for girls, of them there are more than half a million new voters annually, and boys numbering even more who have just become twenty-one before registration days.

Since getting out the vote is a modern development and necessity, nearly 50 per cent voting in 1876 and less than 55 per cent in 1924, all modern publicity methods are used. In addition to the canvassing schools, parties and birthday parties, the former will select eligible students vote and they are urged to see that the faculty does also. The latter are primarily social affairs for girls, of them there are more than half a million new voters annually, and boys numbering even more who have just become twenty-one before registration days.

Do not ask at the information booths erected in stores, libraries, and other places whether Mr. So-and-so will enforce prohibition but drink a pre-dinner cocktail. Only time and place and other facts on the mechanics of voting will be supplied. Reminiscent of the Douglas-Lincoln debates are the symposia held in many communities at which the candidates speak on the election issues.

It makes no difference whether it is prosperity or corrupt practices which make people careless of how things are run or consider themselves impotent to charge conditions, there is one solution. To prevent drifting into unpopular legislation

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Strange are the casual encounters which make up the endless mixed patterns of Manhattan. If, for instance, you were to take a seat, shortly after the regulation dinner hour, behind the vined fence that hedges New York's sole sidewalk cafe on Second Avenue, your attention would soon be attracted to the pleas of youngsters, with noses pressed through the grill-work.

If, like myself, you expected them to be begging pennies, you might at first give little heed.

Then, suddenly, it might occur to you that the words you heard had nothing to do with pennies.

"Some bread, mister! Please gimme some bread!"

A man can ask for money and you'll pass him by. But the word "bread" is one to make you stop. It flashes upon you that these youngsters, whose thin faces you could touch, are pleading for food. Your table is over-laden. A generous basket overflows with buns and bread. A few narrow strips of fence are all that lie between poverty and plenty.

It's a situation to shock you into a sense of unreality. You look about to make sure you are here, right. Yes, there are three noses peering through three openings in the lattice-work. The noses are on three brown faces—the faces of children from Latin lands. Automatically your hand reaches for the bread basket and you slip over the fence along your hands can hold. And you see three little forms go scurrying happily into the night.

The waiter comes up. You tell him what has happened.

"I've served here for 12 years," he tells you. "And at first I thought the youngsters were all clever little beggars. I know better now. They never ask for candy or pennies or sodas. They want food. Oh I found out all about it. They're really hungry. They generally come to me. I never refuse them. Sometimes I learned, it means their breakfast."

You look about. The gay lights of the Second Avenue cafes are blinking. Through an open window come the strains of a Russian balalaika orchestra. There is laughter within the cafe. Automobiles dash past.

The thing, then, has not been a fantastic dream. There are, then, children in Manhattan who must cry on the sidewalks for their daily bread.

Or, if you watch closely in the subways, you will see a tattered, beaten looking man, in his role of messenger, is taking a "Success" sign to some theater in the Broadway belt. Or you may even encounter the eccentric and slightly mad sprinter who approaches the crowd lined up at the ticket box offices and hands them a little pamphlet telling of the hell here that awaits those sinners who under-take to amuse themselves by such worldly pleasures as the theater, the dance or the beer mug.

SCENIC HIGHWAY OPEN IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Washington (P)—Scenery as picturesque as that about Banff is afforded the tourist on the new Slokan highway in Western Canada which has just been opened to traffic. Norton F. Brand, U. S. consul at Fernie, says in a report to the department of commerce.

The highway joins the new Denver-Nasikup road, opening a grand circle through the heart of the Canadian Kootenay. Tourists now may leave the interprovincial highway at Nelson, pass up the beautiful Slokan valley, over the new road and on to Nasikup, ferry their automobiles to Arrowhead at the Head of Upper Arrow Lake and proceed by car to Vancouver and Seattle. Slokan Lake 25 miles long is considered the most beautiful body of water in southern British Columbia. The road at points rises to an elevation of more than 600 feet above the lake.

THE WOODSHED BATHROOM OF THE EIGHTIES

Sunday morning, father hung the "Private" sign on the woodshed. One of mother's laundry tubs became his private bath. Often upon frosty mornings, mother would come running when she'd hear father bawl, "Here hot water, Mother!"

Father's clothes as well as his bathing facilities have changed wonderfully. It is an easy, pleasant experience to choose the right suit here. We fit you.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

VIRGINIA BREWSTER, after losing both father and wealth, consents to make her home with CLARRISA DEAN and her father. DEAN plots to separate her from her fiancé, NATHANIEL DANN, and fails. She then conspires to pay blackmail to a MRS. FARLEY or face a scandal. CLARRISA becomes jealous of her and VIRGINIA resolves to leave, but DEAN insists that she marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $100,000 in a bootlegging deal. Recklessly, she promises to earn enough to repay him in one year.

VIRGINIA leaves but has to pawn a ring to tide over until she can find a position. She goes to NIEL'S studio, but her joy at seeing him is clouded because she dare not reveal her financial need or her promise to DEAN; and also because of the familiarity with which his model, CHIRI, treats NIEL.

She seeks work through an agency but without success. Evening arriving at her hotel on a piling, she finds archduke from DEAN and wonders how he learned her address. NIEL takes her out to dine and on the way home VIRGINIA notices a man whom she has suspected of shadowing her for several days.

Next morning she calls on a broker friend, OLIVER CUTLER, who has promised to help her. His secretary suddenly seems aloof after having been friendly to VIRGINIA at first. A call from the agency brings hope.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX Mrs. Phelps flushed slowly under Virginia's straightforward question and her glance slipped uneasily away from the girl's face to the glass-topped desk.

"I'm not really trying to discourage you," she protested, looking at her. "You're thinking about you and it seems well, a bit absurd for a girl of your position to be subject to such—er, indignities as you met at the Gernsners."

"There were no indignities," Virginia stated gravely. "Mrs. Gernsner lost her temper, it's true, but I'm sure she felt she had sufficient reason to do so. And as far as my position is concerned, it is that of a girl who must take whatever comes to her in the effort to get work."

"That's just the point I wish to make, my dear. Is it necessary for you to get work? Don't you think it would be more becoming if you allowed your friends to assist you?"

A frown appeared on Virginia's forehead, to be quickly followed by raised eyebrows. She smiled coldly and shook her head. "I assume you have been in communication with someone who has advised you against helping me," she said stiffly. "May I ask who it was?"

Mrs. Phelps lifted her chin a trifle. "I am telling you what I believe is for your best interest," she answered evasively. "You have no idea, I'm sure, what it will mean to you to undertake to earn your own livelihood. And surely you do not intend to go indefinitely holding a position. Why should you bother with it at all?" she added lightly in tones that were subtly suggestive of the inconsequence in which she held the idea of Virginia Brewster looking for a job.

"Because I will not accept charity," Virginia replied warily. "But you are engaged. I understand," Mrs. Phelps said suavely. It occurred to her that it is rather needless for you to go through all the unpleasantness and self-denial of this sort of thing so long as you are not in pursuit of a career. That would be different, but as it seems you are only seeking employment until you are married I think you are a very foolish girl to turn your back upon your proper station and your real friends."

Virginia considered her remarks with scant courtesy. "Yes, I do intend to marry—at the end of the year, I hope," she said spiritively; "but in the meantime I must face things as they are and it is impossible for me to go to any of my friends. It is absolutely necessary for me to find employment."

Mrs. Phelps looked grieved. "Well, I've tried to show you how difficult it is," she said defensively; "but if you still wish us to retain your application we shall be pleased to do so."

"Thank you," Virginia replied briefly and departed. She was quite sure there was more to the interview than appeared on the surface. One thing was certain. Mrs. Phelps' indirect reply to her request for the name of the person who had interfered proved to Virginia that her first suspicion was correct. Someone had interfered! But who could it be?

Virginia cogitated over it the rest of the afternoon with small satisfaction. Quite apparently it was someone who knew of her visits to the agency—someone who did not wish her to have success there.

Virginia was at a loss to decide who it might be. She had not mentioned Mrs. Phelps to anyone, not even Nathaniel. Miss Evans knew, but she had sent Virginia there. It was preposterous to suppose she had been responsible for Mrs. Phelps' sudden change of attitude. Unless... but that was utterly absurd. Oliver wouldn't have had any reason to interfere even if Miss Evans had told him of Virginia's plans. But aside from those who knew that she had wanted work who could it be who would try to stand in her way?

It came to Virginia in a flash of conviction that there was one person she could always depend upon to try to help her. Frederick Dean! But he could not have known what she was doing.

Virginia tried to make herself believe that he could not. It would be too harrowing to think that he was keeping watch on her. Still there was simply no one else she could think of who would have any incentive to intervene in her affairs in a way to make her life more difficult.

But how had he turned Mrs. Phelps? "I suppose he told her what a little idiot I was to refuse his aid," Virginia said, and heaved a sigh. "Perhaps he bought an agent to let me down. But I'd rather think she really believes I'm making a fool of myself. She concluded, averse to condemning anyone without proof.

The aftermath of the whole thing was to leave her with a feeling of being in a blind alley without an exit. Miss Evans was inexplicably unfriendly. Nathaniel could not help her because she dared not let him know how badly she needed advice. Oliver was hardly to be trusted to have any sensible ideas and Mr. Gardiner would undoubtedly urge her to accept a loan or the uncertain kindness of friends.

Well, there were other agencies. The telephone directory would afford their addresses.

The next day she made the rounds, deciding to use her own name. She decided that it would probably leak out anyhow, and she wanted to show Mr. Dean, if he actually were having her watched, that she was not afraid of anything, even publicity.

And she got plenty of it. Someone who knew a newspaperman tipped him off that the Brewster girl was hunting a job.

During the next few days, Virginia was besieged with calls, by telephone and in person. Requests for an interview and her story came from every direction. Virginia knew the resourcefulness of the men she had to deal with. In fact she knew several of them by sight, liked them, too, for she and her father had always been well treated by the press; and they in their turn had recognized the fact that rich people are "news" and had never been disagreeable to those whose line of duty crossed their path.

But she hardly knew what to do when they stormed her en masse, and when she appealed to Mr. Gardiner and Nathaniel for advice they advised her to remain in seclusion and to refuse to talk, even to employees of the hotel. Still there were stories and pictures just the same, and the pleas for an interview did not cease. Finally Virginia used her own judgment, called the editorial offices of the different newspapers and asked to have a reporter sent to her at a certain hour that day.

The hotel management, elated with the publicity she was bringing them, arranged her reception to the representatives of the press in great style. They even went so far in their hospitality as to serve refreshments.

When all the "boys" and "girls" of the party were gathered around her, Virginia talked to them quietly and earnestly.

"I appreciate all your kindness of the past," she told them. "But I assure you there is nothing I have to say that can be of any interest to your readers."

"Oh, now," Miss Brewster, "some one broke in. 'People want your point of view, you know. Just why you're looking for a job.'"

"That's right," echoed another. Virginia glanced from one speaker to the other with deep distress in her eyes. She looked very white and shaken and everyone present felt a touch of compassion for her.

"Please," she began softly. "Don't press me for a story. You all know that I've suffered greatly, and there has been so much publicity already. Surely one lone girl cannot be of such importance that she must be sacrificed endlessly to satisfy the curiosity of the world."

"But you're front-page stuff," Miss Brewster, one of them objected. "Can't you just say a word or two about being sick of society and wanting to be useful or something?"

"I'm sorry, I can't say anything," Virginia replied wearily. Then her voice rose slightly and she spoke with forced calmness. "I've asked you to come here so I might beg you to let the public forget about me," she said. "I am at your mercy, ladies and gentlemen. Won't you please spare me?"

"That sounds like the end of this trail to me," a dean among them remarked sort voice. But Virginia heard. She turned quickly to face him.

"Thank you," her lips formulated, but the words were inaudible.

"You won't change your mind?" a young suspicious fellow asked, fearful of drawing off, and then being scooped.

"I please my word that I shall say no more than I have," Virginia promised in full understanding of the thought that troubled him, and the others perhaps. "And I will be undyingly grateful to you all if you will write no more about me than you must."

"Thank you all very much for coming," she hurried on. "I hope some day I may give you some pleasant news for your papers," she added, smiling upon them through a mist of tears. With those who pushed forward, she shook hands and then broke away to disappear through a nearby doorway.

Just as she passed out of sight she turned to nod in final farewell to the men and women who watched her go with a unanimous feeling of good will. Her eye caught one of the group who stood a little apart—a man she had not noticed before, and a quick stab of apprehension pierced her heart.

Ball bearing spring shackles—a new and exclusive Studebaker feature. Greatest improvement in motor car comfort since the balloon tire! Freedom of spring action never before considered possible. No squeaks, rattles and adjustments. Each shackle contains lubricant for upwards of 20,000 miles—a great advance over any other system of chassis lubrication.

Dramatic proof of the ease with which these new Studebakers may be driven is offered by the remarkable records recently established by girls driving under official A. Who's Who In Dogdom

No. 1

The whippet is more than just a dog, he's a racing thoroughbred. But land, some to years ago.

Throughout the country the dog races in recent years have been a popular form of amusement for those who crave a thrill and are inclined to lay a bet.

Dog tracks have sprung up all over the United States like mushrooms. In some of our larger cities three and four tracks are in operation during the summer months.

The sport is so well known it needs no explanation. The bettors make their wagers after the manner of gambling on the horses. The incentive for the dogs to break records, as well as bank rolls, is an electric rabbit that glides around the track in a set groove, while the dogs chase it, but always in vain.

The origin of the whippet seems to be more or less a mystery. It is generally accepted that the dog was evolved in Northumberland, England, some to years ago.

Remained from what stock the whippet came is a beautiful specimen of the cat-like race. He's an aristocrat in appearance, a high house dog, alert, graceful, faithful, honest and a real beauty.

A whippet is often called a "snip" dog. The whippet is a greyhound in miniature. It is certain this breed was the ancestor on one side, with a terrier with a touch coat on the other side.

What makes the whippet so popular as a sporting proposition, is the fact that he invariably gives his best game to the finish, no matter whether he is chasing rabbits in the country or chasing the camouflaged "lunny" around the running track. The whippet's speed is terrific.

NO FREE BEDS, MEALS; HOBOES PASS UP TOWN

SINCE the Appleton police department adopted its policy of no free lodging and breakfast for hoboos, there have been few applications at the police station for such aid according to Chief George T. Prim. The chief issued the order to stop housing hoboos several months ago when the breakfast bill started mounting to huge proportions. He said the department here was "too lenient with the hoboos" and they had passed the word around that Appleton was "easy". Since the new order went into effect and the word has gone around that Appleton is "tough" a cold shoulder to hoboos for lodging and breakfast has been given to free lodgers, there are only a few scattered applications for such aid.

What you get when you buy Ford Coke

Product of the Ford Motor Company

FORD COKE is practically all heat, and that's what you want in fuel. You pay for weight, but you buy heat. In producing Ford Coke the weight of the soot and smoke that you pay for in coal has been removed, but the heat remains.

The quality of Ford Coke is exceptional and is uniform. Ford Coke is made by the Ford Motor Company in its own coke ovens, from coal mined in its own mines, and is used in the Company's own work. This work requires coke of uniformly high quality. Intricate manufacturing processes cannot tolerate variation in this quality. The coke you buy and the coke the Ford Motor Company uses are the same. Both are Ford Coke.

Right now it is selling at attractive prices. This is the most advantageous of all times in the year to buy it. Any of the dealers listed in this advertisement can supply you with Ford Coke in any quantity and in any size you wish. Get in touch with one of them and order this most satisfactory of household fuels right now.

TRAIN CHILD TO SWIM WHEN HE IS YOUNG

ONE time a mother was asked how many children she had.

"At noon I had five," she remarked, glancing at the clock. "I hope I still have them."

"Is there any reason why you shouldn't?" was the astonished reply.

"Well," she smiled, "Ted's out in a motor boat, Jack is horseback riding, Tommy and Lon are out in the car, and Merle is probably up in an airplane. I never know what he will do next."

"But I never worry. We taught them how to take care of themselves when they were young. They get their bumps of course but they usually came out all right."

"But you can't stop an airplane if it falls, and automobiles get wrecked with the best of drivers."

"Yes—that's true. Of course I do have my bad moments with such an adventuresome family. But they have that feeling of safety always that they got when they were little. They never lose their heads in an emergency. That's half of it. All of them have cool heads, quick judgment and steady nerves. They don't worry so I don't."

It is an age of machinery. Chance plays a bigger part in our lives than it did in the lives of our fathers. It is going to play a still bigger part in the lives of our children.

They are entitled to be taught to take care of their bodies as early in life as possible. They can't learn that sitting still.

Children can learn to swim at three. I should have a child taught swimming, in a safe place, of course, when he is five or six years old at least.

If possible I should have him learn to ride a horse. Not that he may turn sportsman, but that he learn that muscular co-ordination that results from the motion of an animal under him, but better still he will learn to be on the qui vive for an emergency. The tiny space of danger is good for him.

I should have him take a few chances, even at the risk of a few bumps and bruises, rather than have him grow up with no idea of how to take care of that body of his.

For although he may not be on pleasure bent, as were the lady's five sons, there will be often times of danger when he will need alertness and coolness to save himself. Those times come to us all.

Will your child be ready?

FRATERNITY IS

GIRL SAYS PROF

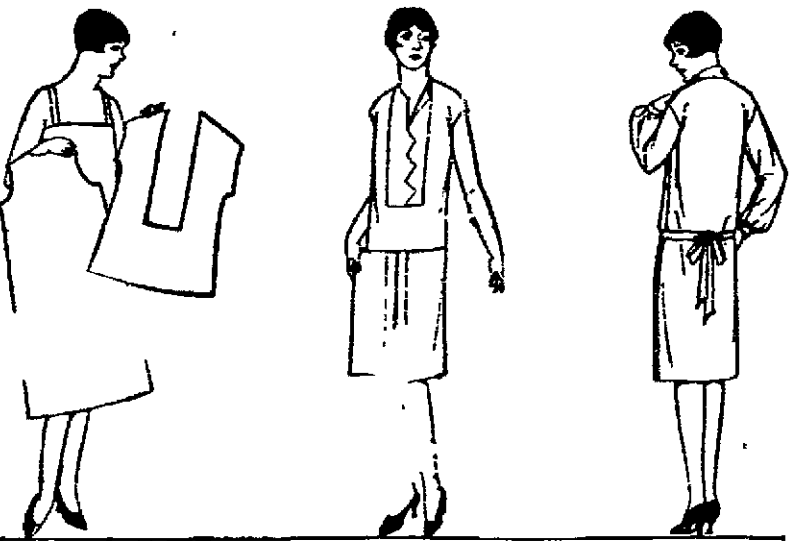

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Jazz and girls are running fraternity life, according to Trustee John L. Porter of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

"Fraternity, years ago," he says, "meant a linking of ideas, ambitions, dreams, pride in achievement and comradeship. How can we look for marks above 70 from a student who spends half his time out of schedule in tumult-tump and the balance necking in some secluded corner?"

Question: Do men spend any more time and interest on girls these days than they ever have?

THE EIGHTY ONE
DUCHESS STILL GOOD LECTURER

Rambouillet, France.—(P)—The Duchess of Exeter, 81 years old and an enthusiastic lecturer, dedicates the jangle chair and glass of water of the oratorical craft and frequently despite her age has spoken for two hours at a time.

Before an audience in Paris she recently remained standing that long discussing hunting to hounds while gentlemen who had stood up also out of politeness sat down after another into chairs.

Though she is still 'mistress of omelets or the pack of Bonnelles' Rambouillet and hunting on which she has written books is a passion with her the Duchess is no longer a very active huntswoman. Her other interests however are wide and include suffrage and the arts.

and
"MOM"
Their Letters
BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Marye:

It's superfluous advice, my child, to ask you to look where you are going or to stop any adventure that promises excitement and thrills, so I suppose I might just as well not warn you to be careful this summer.

Rather, I should remember that you usually land on both feet, though you usually cause your spectators a few breathless minutes before you do.

I wish Alan did not trust you so implicitly—I mean, I wish he did not give you so much leeway. The old-fashioned man who protected his wife and daughters seems to me much wiser in the long run, than the man who gives them unlimited freedom.

For I think you are right when you say it is usually the idea of the intrigue, rather than the man himself, that prompts you to be reckless. And if you once got the idea that intrigue and marriage do not go hand in hand, you might sublimate your desire for heart entanglements.

And since you realize how wholly desirable Alan is, and how superior he is to most of the men you knew, before or since it seems incredible to me how you play fast and loose with his devotion.

You ought to have children, Marye. Nothing gives a woman such a sense of values, or such a perspective on what is important and what is trivial in life, as having to consider the future and the welfare of those dependent on her.

The difficulty with so many modern marriages, as I see it, is the lack of mutual dependence.

So the modern marriage has to hang together with much less foundation than the old one had. It may be better, but I doubt it. There's something like the feeling that someone else needs you and is dependent upon you to keep you from selfishness and flightiness.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Morrison and I went out on a buying expedition. She has definitely decided to open the antique shop, even though I have not decided to go in with her. I shall help her at first, and see how I like it.

We bought some very interesting little mahogany stools which a woman had stored in her attic, and she picked up a very interesting blanket chest in pine. I was surprised at what she had to pay for these things. Apparently anyone with any antiques is quite conscious of their value.

She goes about all the details in the most enthusiastic manner and, what she knows about grams, veneers, periods and lines quite amazes me. It seems she has been studying for years just for her own amusement, never expecting to do anything with it.

Do write often.

Next: Marye finds the tables turned.

Social Leader Gives Up
Whirl For Radio Work

Mrs. Helen Coghill S. Haskin

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEW YORK.—It is quite the thing nowadays for bored Society debutantes to take to aviation as one way to escape ennui. But one society matron has taken the air in a more useful way.

She is Mrs. Helen Coghill S. Haskin, of Virginia, Washington and New York, who traces her ancestry, back to British nobility in the 14th century, has belonged to the social world spelled with a capital S all her life but who has abandoned all that to become a radio lecturer.

IT'S FUN TO PLEASE!

"I'm really interested for the first time in my life," Mrs. Haskin said in a soft contralto voice that bespoke her native state. "I am crazy about my work. Do you know why? Well, you see, for the first time in my life I am giving something to people. I no longer receive languidly the service of others which is so demoralizing a thing in our leisure class. I have to please. And do you know I find it positively thrilling having to put myself out to do it."

Mrs. Haskin believes that the world of radio offers tremendous educational values to women, both as listeners and as leaders of art, music and home life. Incidentally, Mrs. Haskin has a peculiar technique in her radio "appearances."

When interviewed, she was modestly gowned in a stunning black, crepe Elizabethan, with a cane hat, snuggled down over her auburn hair, and with a peck of antique buttons and matching earrings, her only ornaments.

"My costume when I am lecturing to the un-learned audience of the radio," she said, "is just as important as if I were on a theater stage before thousands of critical eyes. Of course one might say it is not important because no one says the least an ounce of sense. But I myself it is imperative that I am well groomed."

Having traveled all over the world she is able to give a hand in formation on the habits of the world, the old masters folk lore, in India, 18 years ago leaving her with two small children and no knowledge of business matters.

Mrs. Barnard found a clerking position at four dollars a week. After taking a business course she was employed in 1906 in the Tampa postoffice as relief stamp clerk. She advanced steadily in postoffice work and in 1923 was appointed postmistress by President Harding. She has held the position ever since.

For making this good breakfast food still better, try MOTHER'S BREAD. You'll find it quite as fine for toasting as for every other use. It slices smooth and evenly without crumbling, and browns over quickly. That's what makes toast good.

MOTHER'S is the best bread for daily use in your home. It's made clean, of pure, wholesome materials and you always get it temptingly fresh, for it is hurried to your grocer's in its dustproof package, every day. Ask your grocer.

Postal employees here are not allowed to take six months' sick leave and vacation as was stated in an article in Monday's Post-Crescent. The article on the subject of postal employees' sick leave was allowed six months on the year, whereas they are allowed six months' sick leave each year and this is not taken out, but allowed to accumulate. The employee may take six months' sick leave in one year, but providing he has not more than six months' sick leave in one year, he is not accumulating.

A Torrent of Soapy Water Kept Hot by The Cast-Aluminum Tub

THE Maytag was the original gyrofoam washer, which makes water do the washing. But the Maytag does more than that—it keeps the water hot to expand the meshes of the clothes, loosen the dirt and aid the cleaning action of the soap and it keeps the soap thoroughly mixed with the water where it will do the most good.

These are some of the reasons why the Maytag washes faster—an entire washing in an hour or so; washes cleaner—collars, cuffs and grimy overalls without hand-rubbing; washes delicate garments band carefully.

Wringing the clothes is easy with the marvelous New Maytag Soft-Roller Water Remover—another exclusive Maytag advantage. It is practically automatic in every operation.

CALUMET COUNTY

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSNEW KAUKAUNA HOME,
WITHOUT A CHIMNEY,
TO BE ALL ELECTRICPower to Be Used for Heating, Cooking and Cleaning at Powers Home

Kaukauna—What is believed to be the first house ever constructed in the state of Wisconsin and probably in the United States without a chimney has just been completed here by Supervisor William Powers.

The home will be heated by electricity and is the first of the kind ever to be heated by that medium. In addition the lighting, heating, refrigeration, cooking and cleaning will be done by electricity and an electric pump will supply water from a sulphur spring in the valley, 200 feet below.

Mr. Powers' cottage is located on the highest bluff in the vicinity of Kaukauna, 225 feet above the level of the Fox river. From the front porch there is a wonderful view of the Thousand island district of the Fox river rapids and also of a small valley of trees. It has been said by critics to be one of the finest views in this section of the state.

Built entirely from white pine logs cut in the woods just a short distance from the cottage, Mr. Powers' cottage will be heated by three electric heaters and a large electric fireplace.

Emulating the old log cabin, he has a fire place with candlesticks—but the three logs in the fireplace throw off an electric heat and the candles are electrically lighted. The fireplace is built of concrete studded with stones taken from Lake Winnebago.

Mr. Powers is the first resident of the city to take advantage of the lowest rate for electric power for home consumption—1½ cents per kilowatt hour. The Wisconsin railroad commission recently granted the application of the municipally owned Kaukauna Electric Light plant to put this rate into effect.

Kaukauna has been aptly termed the electric city because of its fine electric plant and its low power rate to home consumers.

Many people here are watching Mr. Powers' electrical experiment with interest and if it is successful it is expected that many families here will abandon furnaces and coal stoves and turn to the more modern way of heating.

Construction of the house was started early this spring and the work was done under the supervision of Mr. Powers. Carpentry work was done by Joseph J. Hayes and masonry work by Ray Hennies.

One of the interesting features of the house is the manner in which the corner cutting was done by John Powers, father of William, the owner. The elder Mr. Powers is probably the only "corner man" left in this section of the state.

In the early days a "corner man" was quite a novelty and his services were often required in villages where construction was under way. There is quite a trick to cutting the logs to fit the corners, Mr. Powers said, and not every one can do it. All the logs for the house were cut by Mr. Powers and his father.

The side logs are more than 30 feet long and the front and back logs are about 20 feet long. The building is not one story high but is very roomy inside. Some of the logs are more than a foot thick and they are covered with marine varnish to keep them from decaying.

Inside the building is but one large room 20 feet long and probably 18 feet wide. This will be the living room while beds will be placed on the sleeping porch in front. This porch is about 18 feet long and 10 feet wide. Through the windows of this porch can be seen the fine view of the valley and the river below.

Mr. Powers said he does not expect to spend any more for electricity for his new home than he would spend for fuel for the winter.

The little cottage is located in a four acre patch of woods on County Trunk Z, about a mile east of Kaukauna, and Mr. Powers plans to have a landscape artist improve the grounds. In the woods surrounding the house he hopes to have a number of wild animals and in time will have a small natural menagerie.

MOOSE BAND PLAYS 3RD
CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

Kaukauna—The Moose band will play their third concert of the summer at LaFollette park, Tuesday evening at 7:30. The band will play a group of numbers under direction of E. W. Wiedenbeck. The first band concert was given in LaFollette park and the second in the Tourist park. The band is to play a series of ten concerts during the summer.

ORDER POSTERS OUT OF SALOON WINDOWS

Kaukauna—Posters and other notices were ordered out of the windows of all the Soft Drink parlors in Kaukauna Tuesday by Chief of Police, R. H. McCarthy. Material that prevents the public from looking into the soft drink parlors must not be placed in windows of such places, the chief said.

HOUSE WITHOUT A CHIMNEY

The new home of William Powers, a mile from here, is to be unique in many ways. One of the features is that it has no chimney, all heating, cooking, cleaning and refrigeration being done by electricity. This is made possible by the low electric rate of the Kaukauna Electric light plant.

ARNO IS TOUGH BUT
ZWICK WINS BATTLE

Kaukauna—Word was received here Saturday by Jacob Miller that Phil Zwick did not lose a single round in the fight with Nat Arno of New Jersey Monday, July 23. The first round was even and Zwick took all the rest by a big margin.

Zwick said that the fight was a tough one for him because he had not fought for some months. He said that the Arno kept coming into him and his arm held up fine and that he does not expect it to trouble him again.

James W. Schlemmer, sports writer wrote in the Beacon Journal, "Zwick hitting, gangling, long-armed and hard hitting feather won the fight clearly."

KAWMEN ALONE IN SECOND PLACE IN BASEBALL LEAGUEGreen Bay's Loss to Kimberly-Little Chute and Kauka-na's Win Breaks Tie

Kaukauna—Kaukauna again is alone in second place in the Fox River Valley league as a result of the ball games played Sunday afternoon. Green Bay, tied with Kaukauna for second place, took a 13 to 7 beating from Kimberly-Little Chute Sunday and Kaukauna squeezed out an 8 to 5 win over the Appleton nine. Kimberly-Little Chute stepped another game ahead in the league and now is two games ahead of Kaukauna.

Amadee got into action at shortstop Sunday for the first time since he hurt his foot and he showed up well. Amadee put himself in slick with the home fans when he made a shoestring catch and stopped what would have been a sure hit.

About is still going strong on the hill and in the batter's box. In Sunday's game he only allowed seven hits and struck out seven men. With a man on the runways he knocked out a homer giving the Kawmen a safe lead over Eau Claire's crew.

Les Smith, Kaw manager, continued in his slump by going hitless in last Sunday's game. Some fans stated that Kaukauna was lucky they did not need the slugger's help in the last few games and are hoping that he gets out of the rut before next Sunday's game with Fond du Lac at the latter's park.

The Shramm brothers probably will be the batteries for Fondy and the usual team. Abrott and Wenzel will fill the bill for the Kawmen. Fond du Lac trimmed the Nee-Menasha squad 18 to 3 Sunday and is determined to run the Kawmen in the same style. Shramm pitched good ball Sunday and if he does the same next Sunday he will cause the Kawmen some trouble.

DECLARES EDUCATORS AIDED POWER 'TRUST'

Blaine Says University Is Not Free of "Curse of Monopoly Propaganda"

Mosinee—(P)—The University of Wisconsin and the state teachers colleges "are not free from the blighting curse of monopoly propaganda," Senator John S. Blaine said in an address here today.

"The great water power and utilities combination has wormed its slimy influence into these schools," he charged.

"There was a professor by the name of Woy, of the Wisconsin University, who was author of a book," he said. "The public utilities prepared material for it. Then there was another professor at the University by the name of Glaeser, whom the director of the public utilities information bureau encouraged to prepare a book and it was prepared and the book has been widely promoted by public utilities all over the country."

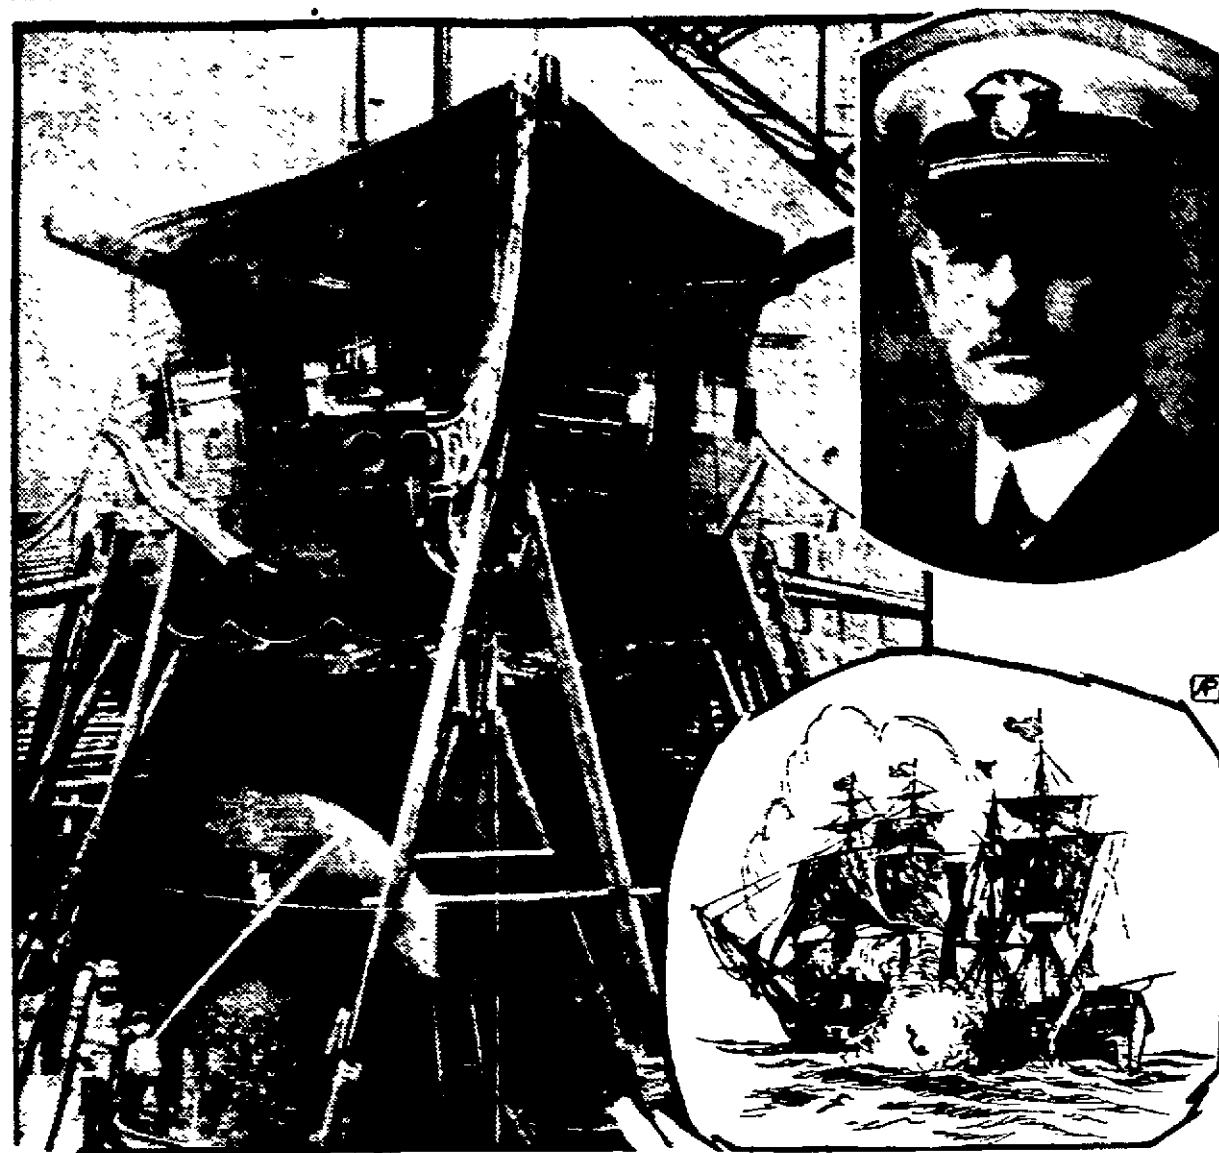

"When a University of Wisconsin professor was selected for the presidency of the University of Oregon, the utility interests of Oregon inquired of the utility interests of Wisconsin as to whether or not he is a 'radical.' And the utility interests of Wisconsin reported back that the appointee had a very clear and sound slant on all questions political."

"Testimony discloses that more than 30 professors and others spoke at a convention or performed other services for the power trust. The power trust spent, in various ways, over $33,000 in Wisconsin in the year ending last April. These thirty professors and others made 500 public speeches, to 175,000 people in the state during that year."

"The national education association has taken note of these facts. It appreciates that the secret, underhanded work of the power trust was undermining the morale of those who are paid out of public funds to mold the opinion of the youth of the state."

"It is a regrettable fact that this sinister influence has invaded our schools. However, the people of Wisconsin are not to be intimidated upon the fact that a more handful of professors and teachers has been willing to spread the propaganda for the power trust that wants to get a firm grip on our economic and industrial welfare."

'Old Ironsides' Grows Young As Workers Toil On Famous Ship

About seventy per cent of the frigate "Constitution" will be of new construction when the vessel, ravaged by the decay of 132 years, has been reconditioned and floated again. Lieut. John A. Lord (right) is in charge of rebuilding the ship, shown at the left in drydock at the Boston navy yard. Below is reproduced a sketch of the historic craft when it was the pride of the American navy.

Boston—(P)—Shedding the decay of 132 years, "Old Ironsides" is growing young again.

As the days pass in the drydock at the Boston Navy Yard the old frigate feels new ribs forming in her massive frame, new strength growing in her ancient hull.

But renewing the youth of the Constitution is a herculean task. Lieut. John A. Lord, U. S. N., grizzled master builder of such steel super-dreadnaughts as the New York and the Arizona and designer and builder of wooden craft, too, is surging on the charge of the operation.

Lieutenant Lord says the task in hand is like no other ever undertaken in marine engineering. Seventy per cent of the ship must be replaced, including her most vital parts. Original methods had to be devised, for she had reached a state of almost complete decay.

Lord has put two years of planning into the work now being carried forward. All he had to begin with was a drawing of the ship, built at the yard ended 50 years ago. An improvised shipyard had to be assembled with shops, lumber, sawmills and planing machine. From the wooden shipyards of his home state, Maine, he assembled a small but expert force of workers. These were augmented with Navy Yard workers, specially qualified.

Some of the equipment is quite ancient, as machinery goes. A fustock saw, brought in from Portsmouth, N. H., to saw out those crooked timbers which, scarred together, make the ship's ribs, is 70 years old.

Where she lies in drydock now, the dismantled hull of the famous fighting ship is almost lost behind a screen of scaffolding and bracing. A cradle had to be thrust tightly about her bottom to hold her firmly together—a new method.

Within the ship, too, a small forest of braces and shoring has sprung up between the four decks. As the workers clambered up and down ladders, through hatches and down into the bottom-most part of the ship, Lieutenant Lord explained that all this was necessary. The danger of collapse has to be reckoned with in every step of the work, as decayed support timbers are removed and replaced by sturdy oak beams.

The work is like reconstructing a worn-out four-story building in which the first floor must be torn out and repaired first.

In the bottom a new keelson was installed which with a sister keelson, makes the ship's extraordinary longitudinal strength 50 per cent greater. New timbers fashioned of live-oak from Florida, kept for 75 years under water, are placed between the frames before the old are removed. All is bolted together, with bar-corner everywhere replacing iron. Where the new frames, drenched "hot" in preservative, approach the berth deck, the old craft's ribs are as firm and strong as those of any modern ship.

From Delaware have come great curved white-oak masts and from West Virginia, long strong timber oak timbers. With modern methods of preservation, the new construction should have a longer life than she had in prospect when first built.

England has looked up Lord Nelson's fabled Victory in a drydock. But even after repairs she will never sail the high seas again.

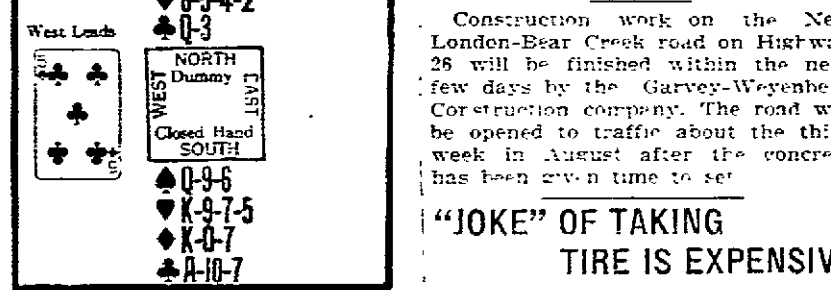

"The Constitution," says Lieutenant Lord, "nearly as old and in a similar decayed condition, will be fully restored, permitting her to appear again on the high seas, fully equipped and rugged, staunch and seaworthy, in all her glory."

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

Today, tomorrow and Thursday, the cards of the Closed Hand and Dummy will be given, the contract, and the card led. Today three questions are asked concerning the hand; readers are urged to determine upon their answers before reading the explanations given below.

South is the Declarer; contract No Trump; score love-all (nothing-nothing). Five of Clubs led.

QUESTION 1: Which club should Declarer play from Dummy on the first trick?

QUESTION 2: Supposing Declarer play a small club from Dummy and East play the King, what should Closed Hand play?

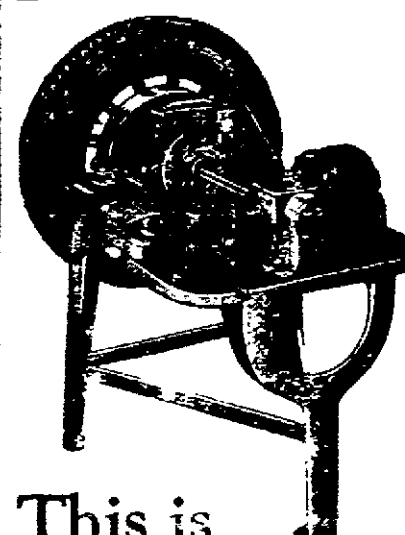

QUESTION 3: Which suit should Declarer lead when he wins his first trick?

THE ANSWERS

1. On trick 1, Declarer should play a small from Dummy. Generally the Queen is the card to play from Queen and one, and this would be true if Closed Hand had Ace and one or two small, or no strength in the suit; but with Queen, two tricks will be made by a small play from Dummy, and only one is assured if Dummy play the Queen. Prove this by putting the King and Jack of Clubs in either adversary hand and note that no matter where they may be, two Club tricks must be made by play a small from Queen's hand using Ace-Ten.

2. Closed Hand should play small on the first trick. Two Club tricks can be won more easily by ducking the King. Declarer can take the second and third Club tricks and possibly bring an extra for the West hand to run its long Club.

3. Declarer should lead a Spade. Many players would find a heart tempting; but a suit of seven cards

KOHLER ANGERED BY JIBE AT PLUMBERS

Candidate Says Zimmerman's Attack Was "Wanton and Scurrilous"

Kohler Wis.—Walter Kohler of Kohler, candidate for governor, tonight asked a question which he termed as "wanton, wanton and scurrilous," the assertion made by Gov. Zimmerman, "If you want to go bankrupt, be a plumber."

Had it been said by a man who would not have replied but he felt it an insult, he would have answered because the plumbers are attacked by a political opponent in his opposition to him.

"When my candidacy was announced, I said that I would conduct a clean campaign free from personalities and that upon my political opponent I would keep silent and shall continue to keep this pledge," Mr. Kohler said.

"One of my opponents, however, in an attempt to discredit me has attacked the status of skilled craftsmen engaged in the plumbing trade."

"I have seen Mr. Zimmerman's statement and from experience how true it is. I have seen plumbers. Why should I go to repair a faucet. After the plumber of imperfect ability will use that faucet to draw a little charge out of your house. If you want to go bankrupt, be a plumber."

"If this attack was directed only at me personally I would ignore it. I have others. But as the plumbers have been so recently slandered, and vilified by a political opponent because of his opposition to me, I feel it incumbent upon me to answer the charge."

PHILIPS PLUMBING CRAFT

"During the more than thirty years I have been engaged in the manufacture of plumbing supplies I have been in close contact with and entertain a high respect for plumbers throughout the United States. I have seen the plumbers' craft steadily expanding in usefulness to humanity."

"Without the sanitary facilities made possible by the plumbing trades, our great cities would be an impossible, filthy, without adequate plumbing, modern civilization would fail."

"The slander by my opponent is a wicked and serious attack upon a time honored craft and every individual in the state who recognizes its injustice and resent it."

"It is to be regretted that the professional politicians have chosen to evade a constructive campaign of issues to indulge in vilification and unfounded personal attacks."

Renner had been seen near the machine and when he was questioned he admitted taking the tire "as a joke."

SPEED UP PLANTINGS OF TROUT FINGERLINGS

Madison—(P)—Approximately thirteen million brook, brown and rainbow trout fingerlings will be planted in Wisconsin streams when the present season is over, according to the conservation commission.

This year is being speeded up through use of the new trucks used to carry fish from hatcheries to rail cars.

These new trucks make it possible to move 100 cans of fish at a time. They are specially constructed and speedy. Each truck has two shelves along each side. Twenty-four cans of fish can be placed on each shelf, and four cans are out in the aisle after shelves are loaded. Special aeration apparatus makes it possible to keep the water in each can constantly aerated.

FARMERS NOT DISCOURAGED BY WINTERKILLING OF CROPS

PROBABLY WILL NOT HAPPEN AGAIN SOON, STATEMENT DECLARES

Agriculturists Are Advised to Plant Their Alfalfa Earlier This Year

BY W. F. WINSEY

In a statement recently made by H. L. Westover, of the United States Department of Agriculture, alfalfa growers who lost their seedling by winterkilling are advised to plant new crops in fields most favorable to success. He calls attention to the fact that alfalfa growers at the time they lost their alfalfa, lost their red clover and other winter crops. There is no danger of them becoming discouraged and abandoning winter crops notwithstanding the losses last winter and an occasional winter before. Dairy men can better afford to abandon any winter crop before alfalfa. As a matter of assurance, Mr. Westover says that farmers may not lose any of their winter crops again for several years to come. The unusual weather conditions of last winter may not be encountered again for some time to come.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Westover, mentions the kind of a field to select for alfalfa, the preparation of the seed bed, the kind of seed to sow, fertilizers to use, the growth that alfalfa should attain before winter sets in, and other essential for the successful growing of the crop.

"Extensive losses of alfalfa last winter may discourage farmers and incline them to the abandonment of alfalfa culture," says Mr. Westover. "This they cannot afford to do, especially those engaged in dairying, until some satisfactory substitute crop is available. If a farmer should give up alfalfa crop that winterkilled at some time or other, he would soon be depending on annuals, which, to say the least, would not be advisable. The conditions that confronted the farmers this spring as regards their alfalfa may not be repeated for several years. It is only occasionally that such an unusual combination of weather conditions occurs as that encountered last year."

"Ordinarily in sowing alfalfa, plans for the location of the field are made a year or so in advance and cropping managed accordingly so that alfalfa can be sown in summer on land that had been fallow during the spring. Under the emergency created by weather conditions last winter, plans may well be rearranged. It is too late for sowing alfalfa with a nurse crop, and land suitable for alfalfa is usually in another crop now.

"Alfalfa should go into the winter with a growth of eight to ten inches to avoid winterkilling. In most of this area, the seed should go into the ground by August 15, or earlier in the northern sections."

Northern farmers, as a rule, sow the hardy alfalfas such as Ontario Variegated, Grimm, or northern grown common. In the north, the common variety is usually less satisfactory than the Grimm variety. Variegated. Most farmers are acquainted with the need of inoculation and liming, with the need of fertilizer and with the quantity of seed that should be sowed on the fields.

CONTROL OF POTATO BUG AN EASY TASK

Madison—(P)—Control of the potato bug, a constant enemy of the potato grower, is easy, if applications of poison are made at the right time and the work thoroughly done, according to J. G. Milward, potato specialist at the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Careless in applying the spray will result in not killing the grubs, Mr. Milward says. The grower must see that the equipment is such that the spray or dust is forced on to every part of the plant. In spraying, the liquid in the tank must be kept well stirred or the poison will settle, and only a small part of it reach the plants.

Paris green has for so many years been used against the potato bug that many growers will continue to use it, but experiments conducted at the experimental stations at Wausau, Halesburg, and Hazelhurst, as well as at Madison, show that arsenate of lead, properly applied, are just as efficient in killing potato bugs as is Paris green.

Successful Dairymen Say Testing Was Responsible

Seven members of the first cow testing association formed in Outagamie county, the Ellington-Outagamie Herd Improvement Association, are still active in the work and say they are their success in the dairy business to their connection with the association. Horticulture. It is said that there are at present 10,000 cows in Outagamie county that have been tested and have made milk and butter production records. As the first cow testing association in the county was organized only 10 years ago, the number of cows that have since been tested speaks quite well for the popularity and profit of the practice. All of the members of the associations, past and present, have been able, through testing, to eliminate low producing cows, keep the better cows, to fill vacancies, sell surplus cows readily on account of having production records and, summing it all up in one phrase, to make the maximum money in the dairy business.

FEWER BADGER LAMBS REPORTED THIS YEAR

Figures Show Sheep Crop Was Twice That of Today Thirty Years Ago

The lamb crop in Wisconsin this year is about two per cent smaller than a year ago. More ewes are on farms of the state than last year, but the number of lambs saved per 100 ewes is about four per cent below a year ago according to the report issued by the Wisconsin Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, of the Wisconsin and U. S. Department of Agriculture, at Madison today.

Thirty years ago Wisconsin had about twice as many sheep as there are in the state at present, the low point in our sheep production being reached in 1927. Since then sheep have been increasing and it is probable that the upward trend in numbers in this industry will continue. The estimated number of all sheep on Wisconsin farms on January 1, 1928 was 430,000 head.

The United States lamb crop for the present year is about eight per cent larger than the crop a year ago. For the current year as a whole the percentage of lambs saved was slightly above that of last year. For Wisconsin the number of lambs saved per 100 ewes this year is estimated at about 110 and for the United States about 89.

A greater part of the increase in the United States lamb crop this year was in the western lamb states. The increase in these states was due both to an increase in the number of breeding ewes and to the number of lambs docked per 100 ewes. The western lamb crop docked is estimated at 15,365,000 head in 1927 and 16,213,000 head in 1928. The number of lambs docked per 100 ewes is estimated at 82.2 in 1928, 78.9 in 1927, and 87.7 in 1926. The largest increases in the western lamb crop this year were in the states where severe storms in April and May, 1927, resulted in severe losses of lambs last year, although there were also material increases in the early lambing areas of all the western states.

For the native lamb states the information as to the size of the lamb crop was secured from reports gathered by the rural mail carriers about June 1. The lamb crop for these states was computed by applying the ratio of lambs saved per 100 ewes, including ewe lambs kept for breeding, in each state January 1. The ratio as shown, however, is that of lambs saved to breeding ewes over one year old January 1. Since ewe lambs are quite generally used for breeding purposes in the native states the ratio of lambs saved to ewes over one year old January 1 is larger than in the western states where few ewe lambs are bred.

FARM NEWS FROM NEAR STOCKBRIDGE

Special to Post-Crescent

Stockbridge—The farmers are busy threshing peas this week and some are cutting winter wheat.

Raspberries are plentiful in this section and the gardens are all good. The hay crop was poor and it is hard to find good pasture for the cows. H. F. Pincel solved the problem when he planted 32 acres to sweet clover last year. This year he has a 12 acre field of sweet clover in which he has sown 30 head of cattle and you can not see that it has been touched. The yearlings can not be seen when they are out in the field. Grain planted on the last year's sweet clover field looks twice as heavy as that which was not planted on the clover field.

Nick Wagner had a galvanized roof placed on his barn this week.

The Rocky Mountain lion, which is not a real lion but a cougar, is hunted ruthlessly and slain by the ranchers and stockraisers because of its raids upon cattle.

SUNLIGHT FOR YOUNG BABIES IS HEALTHY, BULLETIN DECLARES

Authorities Give Schedule for Having Youngsters Get a Coat of Tan

BY W. F. WINSEY

In Folder No. 5, entitled Sunlight for Babies, issued by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor, the statements are made that sunlight is a most important factor in the life of a growing child, especially a baby. Normal growth of bone is dependent not only on the food that a child eats but also upon the direct sunlight he receives for the direct sunlight provides the body with the power to utilize the food. To ward off rickets, use sun baths and administer cod-liver oil. Sun baths should begin when the baby is about three or four weeks old. On the first sunny day in early spring, the baby with the hood of the carriage and the baby's cap pushed well back so that the sun will shine directly on his cheeks but not in his eyes. Every few days, the amount of body surface exposed to the sun should be increased, at first very slowly, but as the days grow warmer, more rapidly. After the face and hands are used to the sun, the arms may be bared, at first one at a time, later both together. They should be bared for only a few minutes at first, and the time increased daily.

INCREASE GRADUALLY

Gradually, the baby gets used to the sun and by the middle of May or the first of June, sun baths may be given the whole body. When the face and arms are tanned, the shirt should be taken off for a short time daily and finally the band and cap. The sun bath may be lengthened until the baby lies in the sun an hour in the morning and an hour in the afternoon. In July and August, sun baths should be given before 11 a. m. and after 3 p. m. On very hot days the baby should not be given sun baths between these hours and if he is outdoors, that time his head should be protected.

Though sun baths are of primary importance for the baby, they are of great value for the "runabout" and the preschool child. Clothing for sun baths should be low in the neck, short in the legs, and without sleeves. An ordinary bathing suit or bathing trunks, a sleeveless slip, or a set of cotton underwear may be worn. Tanning is the goal for which to strive. The exposure should begin with the face and arms and increase slowly in duration and in the extent of body surface exposed, until the whole body is exposed for two hours a day.

GIVES SCHEDULE

Another hint, an introduction to the schedule for daily sun baths says, "The baby must be placed in the sun sunlight. Sunlight through glass is not sufficient. He should be protected from the wind and his head and eyes should always be shielded from the direct sun."

The area of the baby's body bathed by the sunlight is gradually increased each day, as also is the length of time of the bath. The skin should always be slightly reddened by the sun, but not burned, so that it will gradually become tanned a warm brown.

"On the first day, roll down the baby's stockings and expose his knees to the sunlight for three minutes. The second day, after exposing his knees for this length of time, lower his stockings to his ankles and expose his legs to the sun for three minutes in addition to the exposure to the knees, making six minutes in all for the knees. The third day, this may be followed by removing the stockings and exposing the feet for the first time until the baby's entire body front and back, is bathed by the sun for twenty minutes. The sun bath may be repeated in the afternoon if you wish. It should always be given before 10 o'clock morning or after 2 o'clock in the afternoon but not during midday, when the sun is hottest."

"With very young babies, a new area should be exposed only every other day, taking 24 days instead of 12 to attain the total exposure. After the child has become accustomed to his sun bath, he should be allowed to play about in the sun throughout the day, and his coat of tan will keep him warm."

USES FERTILIZER, GETS BUMPER CROP

Shiocton—One of the most remarkable examples of the after effect of the use of commercial fertilizer on rows of corn is an eight acre field of buckwheat directly across the highway from the farm buildings of H. M. Allender, route 1. The field is said to be owned by Albert Payton and was sowed to buckwheat by William Spoehr this spring. Last year, a crop of corn was raised on the field, and

NEWS ABOUT PRICES PAID TO FARMERS

Madison—(P)—Butter trading during the past week was slow, American cheese production showed a steady decrease, attributed somewhat to hot weather and hog receipts were curtailed as a result of a sharp break in the previous week, leading to price advance, said the weekly review of the state department of markets. The review:

The butter market was slow during the past week. Supplies were not burdensome, but were ample to buyers' needs. Buyers were reluctant to anticipate future needs. A substantial part of the high cost butter went into the freezers. At the close of the week, the sentiment improved. For a few weeks there is fair demand and supplies were moderate. Medium and undergrades were in active demand. Centralized cream market trading was fair. Cold storage holdings on the four principal markets on July 26 amounted to 46,584,983 pounds as compared with 63,919,287 pounds on the same week day last year. Butter prices are 3 cents higher than last year at this time.

According to government reports, the production of American cheese is showing a steady decrease as the season progresses. This is not only due to the normal seasonal conditions, but also is the result of somewhat unfavorable production conditions, chief among which is the hot weather. Production in Wisconsin has been close to the mark of last year for several weeks. Cold storage holdings of cheese at the four principal markets on July 25 amounted to 13,414,561 pounds as compared with 14,143,022 pounds on the same week day last year. Cheese prices are 1/2 cent higher than a year ago.

Hog receipts were curtailed as the result of the sharp creek of the previous week. Prices advanced and most of the loss was more than regained. Prices are 10 to 15 cents higher as compared with the close of the previous week. It is pointed out that the reduction in supplies was due in some measure to the fact that the heavy movement of hogs for the summer is practically over. The quality of receipts was satisfactory, the bulk of the supply falling within a good and choice grades. Hog prices are about $3.95 and $105 respectively higher than last year's.

CUTS FIELD OF BARLEY; CROPS LOOKING GOOD

Shiocton—Robert Schroth, route 2, cut a field of barley on Wednesday. It had ripened naturally and looks as though it would yield well. On a recent piece, Mr. Schroth and two other farmers have 80 acres of barley about ready for cutting. He put up 55 loads of hay, has 40 acres of oats and 25 acres of corn. His corn is tasseling out and looks very thrifty, and there is no sign of disease on any of his crops. His barley will yield 40 bushels to the acre and his oats 50 bushels. Thirty head of grade Guernsey cattle including 23 cows will get all they need of the hay, grain and corn. Mr. Schroth is raising. He has one man to help him with his farm work this season.

Ludlow, Vt.—(P)—When the whistle of the Green Mountain Flyer splits the quiet air of this Vermont valley each afternoon, Jerry, the best-known public canine character in Ludlow, knows he has a business appointment. The business of Jerry, an Airedale, is enjoying life.

Day after day for the last five years Jerry has met the crack Boston-Montreal express at the Ludlow station. The regular passengers have learned to look for him

CONTEST WILL SHOW WISCONSIN CREAMERY MAKING BEST BUTTER

Milwaukee—(P)—The Badger creamery making the finest butter will be discovered in competition that will be one of the outstanding events of the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Wisconsin Butter-Makers Association, here October 9, 10 and 11.

Wisconsin creameries, which produce 12 percent of all the butter in the United States will enter five tons of butter, each competitor being represented by a tub containing about twenty pounds, and the judging will be by experts of the state College of Agriculture, the department of agriculture, and technicians of a large butter marketing concern.

The five tons of butter will be stored in huge refrigerators adjoining the banquet hall at the convention hotel during the judging.

Awards based upon the testing and grading will be made at the opening session of the convention. It is the first time the organization has met in Milwaukee, and the first time such complete refrigeration facilities have been available for the conduct of the testing and grading process, followed by the exhibition.

The dinner chef always has a choice bone for Jerry.

By dint of hard fighting Jerry has maintained his concession exclusively. Other dogs have tried to intrude, but have failed sadly. Jerry will brook no trespass in the neighborhood of the station by any other dog while awaiting the approach of the afternoon express.

The home of his owner, Miss Nellie Keating, overlooks the depot. Perched on the piazza, Jerry listens each afternoon for the familiar whistle. Other trains he will not so much as notice.

In five years he has never missed the flyer, except during two weeks under a doctor's care, for an injury he suffered in jumping to greet the dinner crew before the train had stopped.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" to water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gas. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles E. Phillips since 1875.

Shortage of Swine Bound to Make Prices Advance, Press Service Says

BY W. F. WINSEY

The Press Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says, in a recent outlook report of the swine industry in this country that "A hog production maintained at the level of 1925 and 1926, representing an annual inspected slaughter of about 42,000,000 head or some 6,000,000 less than the indicated slaughter for the crop year ending October 31, 1928, promises the best return to the producers of both hogs and corn."

"The present hog situation and the anticipated supplies of hogs and hog products for the next four months indicate that the peak of prices in the seasonal rise which takes place in the summer and fall will probably be reached by the middle of August and that prices will continue at about that level until the usual winter decline begins."

"Hog producers are cautioned to plan to stabilize production at a reasonably profitable level and not continue production on the basis of the last year's prices of hogs and corn. Should this year's corn crop turn out to be larger than average and be low

YANKEE COLLAPSE GIVES MILLER HUGGINS MORE GREY HAIR

Mite Manager Wrinkles Brow As Hurling Staff Falls Before Loop Foes

Eleven Game Lead of Last Week Cut to 5½ by Losses as Athletics Win

Those wrinkles corrugating Miller Huggins' brow are signs that the mite manager of the well known New York Yankees is doing his very heaviest work of the current season.

As a worrier, Miller has few equals and no superiors. When the Yankees lead the field by ten or eleven games at the start of September, he sometimes can be induced to concede that there is a possibility that they may win the American League pennant.

If they get a few breaks.

His anxiety of the present moment, however, is somewhat justified. The complete collapse of the champions' pitching staff in the last week or so has cut what was an eleven game lead over Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics to five and a half.

The Yanks dropped their third straight game to the Indians at Cleveland Monday, 4 to 2, when Miller outpitched George Fingers. It marked the longest Yankee losing streak of the year and Fingers' second defeat in many days.

Babe Ruth who has been hitting singles and doubles for a week in an effort to get the Yanks out of the rut, shifted to his own specialty and saved the champions from a shut out when he poked his 41st homer of the year with Combs on base in the sixth inning. The blow put him at 24 games, 28 runs and seven homers ahead of his 1927 pace.

SEVENTH FOR JACKS

Meanwhile at St. Louis the Athletics were trimming the Browns, 5 to 4, and registering their seventh straight victory. The Browns got 15 hits off Rube Bressler, but couldn't translate them into runs.

Alphonse Thomas was the whole hwo as the Chicago White Sox downed the Washington Senators, 6 to 0. Tommy held the Senators to seven scattered hits while his mates were getting eight off Branton and making them count.

The Boston Red Sox fell deeper into the cellar when the Detroit Tigers gave them another drubbing, 2 to 1 in a tight pitchers battle between Ken Holloway and Ed Morris. Harry Rice's homer in the ninth settled the battle.

GIANTS REPLACE CUBS

The National League standings underwent drastic changes as the New York Giants replaced the Chicago Cubs in third place and the Pittsburgh Pirates ousted Brooklyn from fifth.

Jim Faulkner held the Cubs to four hits and the Giants, crashed by home runs by Hagan and Ott, ascribed through to a 4 to 1 triumph.

The Pirates advanced to fifth place by trimming the Boston Braves in both ends of a double header, 2 to 1, and 6 to 5, in 10 innings. Kremer outpitched Ed Brandt in the first game. Triples by Paul Waner and Pie Traxnor decided the second. Burleigh Grimes, going in as relief for Cyman Hill, getting credit for his 11th victory of the season.

The Phils required 16 innings and four hours to subdue the Cardinals, 8 to 7. Fred Leach crossing the plate with the winning run on a single by Virgil Davis' Cardinal cast-off.

Left handers held the stage at Brooklyn where Jess Petty shadowed Epke Rixey and gave the Robins a 2 to 1 verdict over the Reds. Rube Bressler, former Red, drove in the winning in the sixth.

FOUR INTERCITY BALL GAMES FOR THIS WEEK

Four Appleton playground softball teams, leaders in their leagues, will play intercity games with Neenah playground teams this week, according to a schedule completed by A. C. Denny, city play director. Two of the teams, the Cardinals and Sixth Ward Specials play return games at 6:30 Tuesday evening. The Cardinals play the Bad Eggs of Neenah, whom they beat last week 6-0. At First Ward field and the Specials play the Neenah Paper Co team whom they beat last week 13-4, at Columbia park, Neenah.

Wednesday evening the Third Ward Rockets battle the Eggstrom paper Co team at Neenah, Columbia park, and Thursday the Wisconsin Power Co. meets the Doty Islanders of Neenah at Wilson school field, Appleton.

though I have reasons for not revisiting the United States in the immediate future," he said.

One imagined that the principal reason for the titled athlete's reluctance to visit America was standing beside him at the time—a far-famed young English girl, Lady Mary Scott, daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, to whom Lord Burghley was engaged.

Burghley's fiancée sat in the stadium Monday, with the athlete's parents the Marquis and Marchioness of Exeter.

The Marquis made no effort to conceal his pride in this sensational victory of his son, whom he always said could "run a bit."

Three years ago when Bill Droege, mueller first tried to pole vault, he could do but an inch or so better than 10 feet. But he is one of those young men who follow all the old rules to success and his perseverance and determination to make good could not be denied. He was captain of the North-western track team in 1927 and is now abroad with the Olympic squad, having tied Sahin Carr and Lee Barnes in the finals at Harvard.

Lord Burghley Would Like To Run In American Games

Amsterdam, Holland — (P)—Young David George Brownlow Cecil, Lord Burghley, officer in his Britannic majesty's crack regiment of guards, English country gentleman, just one of the peace and war's crowned Olympic 400-meter hurdle champion, would like to participate in the 1928 Olympic games at Los Angeles if "he's not out of the running altogether." So he told the Associated Press after he had defeated the American stars, F. Morgan Taylor and Frank Cahel in the 400-meter hurdle finals Monday.

"Nothing would please me better than to compete in America again."

reason for the titled athlete's reluctance to visit America was standing beside him at the time—a far-famed young English girl, Lady Mary Scott, daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, to whom Lord Burghley was engaged.

Burghley's fiancée sat in the stadium Monday, with the athlete's parents the Marquis and Marchioness of Exeter.

The Marquis made no effort to conceal his pride in this sensational victory of his son, whom he always said could "run a bit."

The blushing Burghley, as nervous as the Prince of Wales himself, explained he just "ran and hurdled the very best he could."

"Starting as we did, on a curve," he continued, "and with my lane next to the outside, the only person I saw was T. C. Livingstone-Learmonth, who served as an excellent pace-setter. I passed him at the end of the straightway and rounded the last curve with this Americans at my heels. Exceeding my supreme effort, I was unconscious that Cahel was abreast of me at the last hurdle. The Americans are the finest of losers. Cahel and Taylor were the first to congratulate me."

Hammen, Eggers, R. and G. Verbruggen got the best for the Chutesmen, Eggers double being the only extra base hit of the game. It would have been a homer in any fenced field according to reports.

Kellermen and Dick worked for De Pere while Eggers and Van Der Loop performed for Little Chute.

ATHLETICS WHIP HEBEL'S CORNERS

Sternagle Allows One Hit but Mates Almost Throw Game Away Behind Him

Ono Sternagle turned in a one-hit performance for the Appleton Athletics Sunday but his mates almost threw the game away for him time after time by costly errors. As the final score stood the poor-fielding Athletics squeezed out a 7-5 victory over Hebel's Corners in an intercounty League ball game, the enemy counting a quarter of runs on a single hit. The win placed the Athletics a game from first place as the leading Little Chute team lost to De Pere. The only hit off Sternagle was in the last-half of the eighth frame.

The Appleton nine pounded E Falk for ten safe hits, two going for extra bases. The Athletics scored first when Herb Angled, stole second and scored when Furringer beat out a slow roller. Horn scored Furringer with a sacrifice. Kugler scored for Hebel's when E Verbruggen hit. He stole second and came in on an overthrow. In the second E. Falk was hit by a pitched ball, stole second and scored on an overthrow.

Neither team then scored until the sixth. G. Verbruggen walked and Kugler singled for Appleton and both scored on Green's safety. Sternagle sacrificed and E. Verbruggen hit for two practice scoring Green. In the eighth with the score 5-2, Drew walked. He was safe at third and A. Falk was on second after Herb's error on the latter's drive. Then Ross got the only Corners hit and both mates scored. He scored a moment later to knot the count.

With the score tied the Athletics rallied in the ninth row in the game. E. Verbruggen walked. Vanderhinden doubled to center and Verbruggen scored. Vandey stole third and scored on Furringer's single. Kugler, filling Boyle's place at third for the Athletics played a fine game and was the only man to go more than one hit, he having three in four bats.

The Athletics will play the Neenah-Mishawaka Valley league team Thursday evening at the Interlake park in a practice game for the Twin City team. The Athletics will play other Valley leaguers, if they wish a practice game.

Next Sunday the Athletics will play Combined Locks at the Interlake park. The Appleton team has now won five games in a row and eight out of the last nine starts.

CHUTESMEN BEATEN BY DEPERE BALLERS

Lead in Intercounty Loop Cut to One Game by 2-0 Protested Loss

Little Chute—A few bad breaks and failures to hit in the game lost the Intercounty League baseball game for the loop-leading Little Chute nine Sunday and caused the Chutesmen's lead to be cut to a single game with two yet to be played. De Pere whitewashed the Chutesmen, 2-0, but the game was played under protest, the losers claiming the De Pere grounds was equipped with "moveable" sacks, the field post was 20 feet out of line and a bad decision of the umpire calling a Chutes out on third when the basemen dropped the ball. The umpire-in-chief was said to have overruled the decision but when he was nearly mobbed by the fans and De Pere players he left the field. Another umpire was put in and the game played under protest.

Eggers allowed three scattered hits and walked one man while Furringer, Kugler and Verbruggen combined for the game. Kellermen allowed five hits, walked five and hit three. Twice with men on second and third and once with the bases loaded with only one down, the two next men were fanned Kellermen's half-shred on ball whiffed 13 Chutes.

Kellermen's hard drive past Hasee accounted for the first De Pere run and the second came in on a wild throw.

Hammen, Eggers, R. and G. Verbruggen got the best for the Chutesmen, Eggers double being the only extra base hit of the game. It would have been a homer in any fenced field according to reports.

Kellermen and Dick worked for De Pere while Eggers and Van Der Loop performed for Little Chute.

RETAINS JOB

Well satisfied with his work as manager, Earl Smith, of the American League race, took over the Cleveland Indians and retained Roger Peckinpaugh as manager for the 1929 season. Peck also was told to try out some of those youngsters the Indians own and he will do that the rest of the season. Present indications are that he will have a stronger club for Cleveland fans next year.

LA BARBA BATTLES FOR EXPENSE FUND

Returned Flyweight Champ Meets Taylor to Earn Money for College

Los Angeles—Fidel La Barba, retired flyweight champion of this universe, soon will have to retire a second time.

Yes, little Fidel is back in ring togs again—but not for "long." It's only a couple of months more before the opening of the fall term at Stanford University. Then for the next nine months all of Fidel's training will be done in the class room.

Fidel got the urge to throw the mitts around a few more times when he appeared in an exhibition match with the Olympic champion here. At that time, he had some hope of returning to Stanford with the bantamweight crown stored away in his trunk as he had put on some weight since last fall when he entered Stanford. He tipped the scales at 122 pounds for his recent match here with Huerta Evans. All of which indicates that he would have to do some pretty stiff training to make 113 pounds for a bantamweight championship scrap.

On August 7 La Barba will tangle with Bud Taylor, bantam king, at the Olympic Auditorium here. But the only apparent reason for the fight is to enable Fidel to earn next year's college expenses. Both men will go into the ring weighing around 122 pounds. But when the final going comes the respective position held by both men in the boxing fraternity will be unchanged. Regardless of the outcome, Taylor will rule the banties.

La Barba looked mighty good in his bout with Evans recently. His shoulders have broadened a little and there is more snap in his punches. His nine-month retirement at Palo Alto didn't hurt him a bit. The echo of the first going had barely died away before Fidel had landed a terrific left hook to Evans' chin. And from then on he kept things moving at a fast pace, winning easily.

Fidel is more aggressive than he was last year but he still has room for much improvement along that line. So far he has escaped with no noticeable ring markings. And he has no desire to return to Stanford with a broken nose or a cauliflower ear. Which perhaps accounts for him diving into so many clinches.

La Barba will be a different fighter when he meets Bud Taylor, though—he'll have to be. With a warm-up fight under his belt and an additional three weeks of training, he should come out a man that the bantam king will remember for some time. It is impossible to predict the outcome of this fight. Taylor figures to win but La Barba's increased strength gives him a good chance.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

The absence of Curly Schultz at third base Sunday was "a very bad" was responsible for perhaps the Kaukauna run. For while Curly was on a batting slump, his feeling for a "feature" of the "loop" Sunday, Kaukauna scored twice in the first inning on two scratch hits to third base and both of which the fielding was not it. But the runner beat the throw because the basemen was not getting to the ball. A runner had resulted from a hit between Curly and Last that Schultz would have got.

When a Stuffed gets credit for the loss the pitcher gets the blame and is counted as "mild" and the pitcher with a "mild" help from the manager would have batted through and finished as Riven d.d. He was a bit in hot water because of being a hind hand and had to wear a "mild" every time. That was on the "mild" and after a few more of the all the work there is no more "mild" why a pitcher would not be a bit.

This one-run "Crater" from Kaukauna can put the "mild" to shame when he gets a "mild" just too bad he can't be used in coaching lines. Kaukauna has plenty of fun kidding both his friends and razzers in the stands. It may be plenty funny when Kaukauna's P. P. P. and Red Sanders jugs around as a rival coach.

Castoff Players Often Rise To Worlds' Series

BY BILLY EVANS

Fate plays many queer and unusual pranks in baseball. Especially is this true where a discard one day may be a hero the next day and where a player caught in the wrong of a trade may end himself trading from a second division club to a pennant-winning one.

Take the case of Earl Smith and Clarence Mitchell, both veteran National Leaguers and close to the end of their playing days.

A few years ago Earl Smith was with the New York Giants. He got in a pair of hard series and was then traded to the much-strepped on Boston Braves.

He was definitely out of any world series play as long as he was with the Braves, but another change took him to the Pirates and with them he got into the 1927 and 1928 world series games.

New York's case was with another last year in recent weeks. Released by the Pirates he grabbed a job with the St. Louis Cardinals, leading contender for the pennant. He went into them with series over a four season career. Small wonder it is if Earl is looking for the swapping in and out of clubs.

Mitchell's case is very similar to Smith's. He has been in only one world series with Brooklyn in 1920. He started out with the Philadelphia Athletics and had no possible chance to get any world series dough.

Burt Shotton, rebuilding his club, let the veteran go. And where did he go? He joined the Cards, and like Smith, may get in on a world series since this year.

There also is the case of Dutch Reuther, now in the Pacific Coast League. Reuther put in a quite a few seasons with Brooklyn and Cincinnati, getting into but one world series with the Reds in 1919.

Wanted out of the older circuit, Reuther caught on with Washington and helped the Nats cop their second flag. About a month before the end of the following campaign Reuther went to the Yankees on waivers and got in the big games that fall.

Joe Harris, one-time Red Sox star, was another of the "lucky" gang. Harris spent two years with Cleveland and three with Boston before he was traded to Washington in May, 1925. That same year the Nats copied this flag, though losing the world series to Pittsburgh.

Harris stayed with Washington through 1928, but the following year found the fellow with the queer batting stance on the Pittsburgh roster.

Pittsburgh's Dobson won the League title in 1927. He played golf in the fall and then he played two sets of clubs.

SEIGEL AND THREE SALESMEN TO FACE FALL CIRCUIT COURT

Deny Motion to Dismiss Men. Arrested in Investigation of Auto Theft Ring.

New London—Following a day's hearing in which much testimony was taken, Guy R. Siegel, proprietor of a garage here, and his salesmen, Ben Monry, E. H. Vincent and Earl Meating, all charged with possessing and selling stolen automobiles, were bound over to the fall term of the circuit court after Justice F. A. Archibald had overruled defense attorneys' pleas that the clients be dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence. Siegel's bond was set at $4,000 and those of his salesmen at $2,000 each.

A packed court room showed the interest which has been manifested in the case ever since a month ago, an investigation revealed that numerous automobiles had been sold to their end-users, and then sold again, often as new cars.

Siegel was represented by Arthur Scheller, Manawa, and William O'Brien, Fond du Lac, while Otto Olsen, Clintonville, represented Monry, and Frank Rooney, Appleton, appeared for Meating and Vincent.

STOMACH ULCERS

After suffering for more than 10 years with this painful serious trouble, with everything recommended a failure, the last advice came in operation with no assurance of relief. I finally found a new idea of treatment that cured me in 50 days with no restrictions in diet. I am so grateful for my relief that I want to help others by saying that your wonderful treatment should be in the hands of every person suffering from ulcers or a weak stomach. Name on request. Will gladly explain this treatment. George Von, 719 Baker Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn. adv.

TUTTLE PRESS MEN BEAT MACHINE CO.

American League Teams Set
City Record With Six Extra
Innings

A new record for softball games in Appleton was established Monday evening at First ward school field when the Tuttle Press Co. team took a 6-5 victory over the Appleton Machine Co. crew in an American League battle, the teams going six extra innings before the issue was decided. The Pressmen won with two down in the thirteenth when a man singled, stole both second and third and scored on another drive to center field.

Another feature of the game was the numerous sacrifices, the Tuttle men being credited with six and the losers with four for a ten total. Purdy hurled the first six innings for the winners with Fumal back of the bat and Erickson finished the game. For the losers O. Radtke and Green formed the battery.

The Pressmen combed Radtke for 10 hits while the losers got 9 off the two enemy hurlers. Radtke fanned one and walked four and his rivals whiffed seven and walked two. The losers had four errors and the winners two.

Ellis scored for the Pressmen in the first frame and Ziegler and Fumal added runs in the second. Herb and Fumal made it 2-2 in the fourth and then Green and Herb made it 4-3 for the Machine Co. crew in the sixth.

The Pressmen rallied to take a 5-4 lead on runs by Fumal and Bialkowsky in the first of the seventh but Brandt scored to make it 5-5 at the end of the frame. DeLaine's hit drove Zuehlke over in the first of the thirteenth and the Machines went out 1-2-3.

THIRD WARD SLUGGERS WHIP FIRST WARD BLUES

Living up to their name Saturday afternoon at First ward school field, the Third Ward Sluggers whipped the First Ward Blues by a single score, 14-13, with the Blues also doing plenty of the above-mentioned slugging themselves. The Sluggers opened with a man in the first and added three in the second but in that frame the Blues broke loose for their big scoring rampage, ten runs in one jerk. Three more runs for the sluggers and one for the Blues made it 11-7 for the Blues in the third. The Blues added a run in the fifth and the Sluggers third in the sixth for a 12-10 score. Then in the final frame the Sluggers added four in a last desperate rally and held the losers to a single tally.

Captain and Delfosse led the winners with three runs each and Hayton, J. Dutcher and S. Dutcher, scored twice each for the losers.

The lineups:
Sluggers—Endter, c; Steffen, p; Go-sha, 1ss; Captain, 1b; Dachelet, 2b; Ellenbecker, 3b; Delfosse, lf; Vandenberg, cf.

APPLETON MAN GETS 89 IN STATE EVENT

Buster Bock of Northeastern Association Low Man for Day With 71

Burt B. Fisher of Riverview club, the only Appleton golfer in Monday's qualifying round for the annual Wisconsin State Amateur golf tournament at Maple Bluffs club, Madison, turned in a card off 44-89, which probably will place him in Flight B, possibly Flight C, in the meet regular. An 81 regarded as the highest possible score for the championship fight.

Monday and Tuesday were for qualifying rounds; the actual competition starting Wednesday.

The golfers who teed off early Tuesday played under sodden skies and showers but the weather seemed to be improving.

A. E. C. "Buster" Bock, Sheboygan, was low man for the first day's play, with a 71, one under par. Morgan Manchester, runner-up last year, playing on his home course, seemingly had covered the ground until he was "snail" on his game there, for he took 39 out and came back in 42 for a total of 81 strokes.

There were seven golfers under the four score mark, and 81 was expected to be the maximum for the list of those to play Wednesday. Among these seven was W. D. Martin, Kenosha, who has been increasing as an attraction in state golf circles, who brightened up his game on the second nine, after going out in 41, and took 51 on the home stretch for a total of 71.

One ole-one was registered to start off the tourney. A. Mattson, Stoughton, looped one into the cup from the tee on the 172-yard thirteenth hole. With a total of 96, however, he was not expected to be among those in the tournament play Wednesday.

LITTLE CHUTE SWAMPED IN BADGER LEAGUE GAME

Green Bay—In a game featured by good pitching of Mons, and consistent hitting by his teammates, the Press-Gazette Badger league team won out over Little Chute by a 15 to 1 score. Mons fanned 12 men and allowed but one hit. The victory practically clinches the pennant for the local team.

One Honor for Boston
The highest percentage ever made by a pennant-winning club in the National League was made by the Boston club in 1892. They had an .839 percentage.
